State Librarian DEMANDS U. S. STOP MEDDLING

Carranza Sends Curt Message to
Secretary of State Lansing at Washington Today.

ASKS MEXICO BE LET ALONE

"First Chief" Also Warns Latin-
American Diplomats to Keep Countries From Conference.

NOTE BREATHES DEFIANCE

General Funston Rushes Four Companies to Border When Bandit
Situation Gets Critical.

BY JOHN P. STEWART.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, August 11.—The Mexican situation developed rapidly
this afternoon.

General Carranza sent a note to Secretary Lansing advising him to cease meddling in Mexican affairs.

Carranza warned each of the Latin-American diplomats to keep his country out of the Pan-American
conference on Mexican affairs.

Lansing received a strangely contradictory report from Consul Sillma that Vera Cruz is quiet and that the Carranza government had issued
a proclamation deprecating anti-
American demonstrations. It directly conflicted with reports from Commander McNamee, of the Vera
Cruz naval forces.

General Funston rushed four companies comprising the third battalion
of Ninth infantry by special train
to the Brownsville border country
following reports that the Mexican bandit situation is critical.

Carranza's message was made public here shortly before Lansing
in New York opened the final conference with Latin American diplomats in order to reach an agreement on the Mexican problem. His defiant utterances were addressed to Washington and to the diplomats at
an hour when American battleships
were known to be steaming toward Vera Cruz and the army holding itself along the Mexican border.

Carranza also asked the United States to permit the revolution in Mexico to take its course. He added the following statement concerning the Brazilian minister who had been acting for the United States:

"I regret to say that the minister
has been one of the persons who has brought the greatest evil on Mexico's republic and who in a certain
way may be responsible for the present status of our relations with
the government of the United States."

Carranza said that was meant for
the Brazilian government.

But the administration Mexican
program does not contemplate the
use of armed force, despite the preparation that is being made. This
was emphatically declared by a high official today. The border will be defended, however.

Orders concentrating all available
regular troops on the Mexican border were looked for here some time
today.

Secretary Garrison significantly
admitted today that three army
transports are at Galveston and an-
other at New York, ready to sail,
presumably, though he did not say
so, for Mexican waters.

Secretary Garrison had in conference with him all the war department officials through whom a concentration order would be issued.
The navy department declared at
nine o'clock this morning that no

HIGHWAY MEETING TODAY

Rush County Not Represented Because of Bad Weather.

The Hoosier Dixie Highway association, which was formed to boost a connecting link between the Dixie Highway at Cincinnati and the Lincoln Highway at Elkhart, was held at Anderson this afternoon
but no road boosters went from here on account of the inclement weather. The by-laws of the organization call for county organization with two governors from each county to act as an advisory board.
Luke W. Duffy was to be the chief

M. S. SHROPSHIRE DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Autopsy Reveals he Was Suffering
With Gall Stones—Took Sick
Suddenly Last Night.

LEAVES WIDOW AND DAUGHTER

Micajah S. Shropshire, 79 years
old, a well known resident of this
city, died this morning at 7:20
o'clock at his home, 123 East Third
street, after a few week's illness
from gall stones. Mr. Shropshire
had been in ill health for some time,
but yesterday was up and about as usual. Last night he was taken suddenly worse and the end came
this morning. An autopsy revealed
gall stones.

Mr. Shropshire was a native of Kentucky, coming here at an early date, and has since resided in this city. He was born March 31, 1836.
He is survived by his widow and
one daughter, Mrs. Jap Creekmore,
of Indianapolis. Mr. Shropshire was a member of the Main Street Christian church.

The funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the late residence, by the Rev. C. M. Yocum and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

NEED OVER $200,000 TO RUN THE COUNTY

Over Half of Estimate For 1916 Expenses is For the Redemption of Gravel Road Bonds.

LAST OF COURT HOUSE BONDS

The council at the regular session
starting Tuesday, September 7 will
be asked to appropriate a total of $208,411.59, the estimated expense
of carrying on the business of Rush
county for the year 1916. One of the surprising things in the auditor's
estimate is that over half of this amount will go towards the redemption of gravel road bonds. The gravel road bonds falling due amount to $105,813.59.

At this session of the county council $10,250 will be asked for the payment of court house bonds. When this is paid Rush county's court house will have been paid for in full as this is the last batch of bonds to fall due. A total of $59,- 188 will be asked for the county
fund and $25,000 for the gravel
road repair fund.

A call meeting of the P. O. S. of
A. will be held Thursday to arrange
for the funeral of M. S. Shropshire.

TO LOSE WHOLE FIELDS OF WHEAT

Several Farmers Have Abandoned
Hundreds of Bushels of Grain
and Given it up as Lost.

WATER UP TO BUNDLE BANDS

Fair Weather Predicted For Thursday, But Many Tillers of the Soil Have Despaired of That.

"Thursday fair," the weather
man's prediction for today, is calculated to raise the hopes of farmers, but they have almost ceased to
pin any faith in the weather man
because he has disappointed them
so much lately.

Every day it rains, many hundreds of dollars worth of wheat is lost to Rush county farmers. None
can remember when threshing was
not completed, near August 1, but it
will be way past the middle of the month before all of the wheat is in
the graineries or elevators this year.

Some instances are known where
farmers have abandoned whole
fields of wheat and have despaired
of every realizing on them at all.
These cases are rare, however. One
Rushville retired farmer, who owns
land north of the city, says he has
seven hundred bushels of wheat in
one field which can never be threshed.

The last time he saw the field the
water was up to the bands on the
bundles and much of it was floating
around in the water. This case was in a field through which a closed
ditch ran. The ditch was unable to take care of the water when it rains
as hard as it has in the last few days, which caused the field to be flooded.

The hard rains of last night and
this morning prevented any threshing today in districts covered by the
rain was reported to be general all
over the county and was the hardest which has been seen during the present wet spell.

The oats crop is in just as bad
condition as the wheat, whether or not it has been cut.

In Wayne county, the Richmond
newspaper reports, they have been threshing at night in order to get as much wheat as possible threshed
before the next rain. All farmers
living in the neighborhood park
their machines about the fields and
a few are stationed in the center.
Then the threshers proceed under
the glare of the automobile lights.

"If we thought next season was going to be like this one has been I believe most Rush county farmers
would go back to the old fashioned
system of threshing wheat," one
disgusted tiller of the fields said to-
day. "Not so very long ago it was
the general custom to remove wheat
to barns and sheds after it had been
cut and keep it stored until thoroughly dry. Then it would be threshed, frequently after the arrival of cold weather. In recent years farmers have kept their wheat in shocks
until dried and then thresh it in the fields where it was grown. Because
of the heavy rains all this summer
wheat has had little opportunity to
dry. When we will be able to plow
our fields for fall planting is a question I cannot answer."

Garden truck is suffering equally
as much. One truck gardener is reported to have lost two hundred
bushels of onions because of the
excessive moisture and in several instances potatoes are rotting in
the ground.

of the estate of the late John G.

NEW STATE LAW HAS WIDE SCOPE

Workmen's Compensation Act Effects Every Employer And Employee Directly or Indirectly

BULLETIN CONCERNING IT

Prevention of Injuries to Workmen
And Fixing Burden on Ultimate
Consumer is Sought

Every man, woman, boy or girl
who is employed and, every man,
woman, boy and girl who is an employer, will be affected, either directly or indirectly by the operation
of the new workmen's compensation
act, which becomes effective in Indiana on Sept. 1.

The workmen's compensation act
is a law designed to provide specific
and definite compensation for work-
ingmen and women in case of injury
and to eliminate the necessity of
going into court to obtain redress
for injuries suffered in any of the thousands of industrial establishments in this state.

The provisions of the law may be
rejected by employers or employees
by giving thirty days notice to the industrial board of Indiana, which
has charge of the operation of the statute.

So sweeping is the act in its application, and so thoroughly does it
encompass the army of employers
and employees in its provisions, that
a recent study of it by men learned
in the law, results in a finding that
factory employes or railroad brake-
men are not affected to any greater extent than is the singer in a church
choir.

If, after Sept. 1, a brakeman on
a freight or passenger train slips
and suffers the loss of a foot, or
has a greater or lesser injury the
liability of the railroad by which he
is employed is no greater under the
compensation act than would be the
official board of a church if a choir
singer were to slip on an icy sidewalk or steps on the church property and suffer an injury. That is,
provided in either case the church
or the railroad or the choir singer
or the brakeman had given thirty days' notice of their rejection of the law.

In the first bulletin on the operation of the law, written by Samuel
R. Artman, a member of the industrial board of Indiana, the purposes and the effect of the law, together with a comprehensive explanation of how employers and employees shall proceed under it, is given. It sets out just what are the duties of employers and employees
who operate under it in such simple
and comprehensive words that Mr.
Artman's bulletin has been copied
by other states where similar statutes are in operation.

The workmen's compensation act
was passed by the 1915 Assembly.
Its primary object is set forth in the title of the act "An act to promote
the prevention of industrial accidents," and that title is the keynote to the whole statute, its aims
and purposes and the results it is designed to accomplish.

The prevention of industrial accidents, by which is meant those
mishaps which occur in all industrial pursuits and which result in
the maiming of so many working-
men, has long been a serious problem for every state. Workmen's compensation acts, now in operation in many states, are designed to prevent accidents, and
that fact is strikingly set out in Mr.
Artman's bulletin.

"The ultimate object of workmen's compensation is at least two-

BULGARIA MAY JUMP ON TURKEY

Possibility of Abandoning Neutrality Increased by Messages
From Balkan Capitals.

GREECE MAY JOIN ALLIES TOO

BY HENRY WOOD.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Sofia, Bulgaria, August 10. (Delayed) The possibility that Bulgaria may yet abandon her neutrality and fall upon the back of Turkey was materially increased today
by news reaching here from other Balkan capitals.

The Bulgarian foreign office was
informally told that Serbia is willing to make important concessions
if Rumania and Greece adopt a
more conciliatory attitude in the present negotiations.

The nature of a message from Athens was not disclosed but representatives of the allies declared
it contained representations from
the Greek government that aroused
high hopes that both Greece and Bulgaria may agree to enter the war
on the side of the allies.

SIX CONNECTED WITH EASTLAND INDICTED

State Grand Jury Places Blame on Overloading, Faulty Ballast
Tank and Construction.

RECOMMENDATIONS ARE MADE

(By United Press.)

Chicago, August 11.—Six of the owners and officers of the Eastland
sunk in the Chicago river with a loss
of nearly 1,000 lives, were indicted
by the state grand jury today. They are charged with manslaughter and
criminal negligence. Judge Kerston
at once issued capias for the indicted men's arrest.

The jury recommended the steam-
boat inspection service be transferred from the department of commerce and labor to the control and
direction of the navy department.

The report placed the cause of
disaster on overloading, a faulty
ballast tank and on the construction of the vessel.

TO PLAY POLITICS AT CONVENTION

Kappa Alpha Phis, Who Will Meet
Here Last Week of August,
Find it Favorite Diversion.

RACE FOR NEXT CONVENTION

Four Cities After it And Each of Them Have Candidate For National Treasurer.

Fraternity politics is always one
of the big features played at the national conventions of the Kappa Alpha Phi fraternity. The convention will be held in this city fair
week, August 25 to 27 and the political pot has started boiling.

The local chapter is making great
preparations to make the convention
the best ever held and with the fair
as an added attraction the 300 delegates and visitors that are expected to be attracted to this city will
be assured of plenty of entertainment. The official program has not been completed but will be announced in a few days.

The race for the national offices
of the fraternity always furnishes
plenty of excitement and this year
the various candidates have started
early making their campaign. One
of the big fights at every national convention is for the place of holding the next convention. Thus far four cities have announced their intentions of asking for the next convention. Glen B. Woodward of Bloomington, is out for treasurer.
The candidates from Tipton and Detroit are not known, but both cities
are after the convention and one of the best fights in the history of the fraternity is expected.

Interest is also shown in the race
for the presidency. So far two candidates have appeared. They are Kenneth Sullivan of Alexandria and
Ernest Erdmann of Greensburg.
Both men have been making an active campaign and the entire Greensburg chapter will come here in the interests of Erdmann.

E. S. McCarty, of Huntington,
has announced that he will be a candidate for secretary. He has notified the local convention committee that a crowd of fifteen and
possibly more will attend from Huntington. So far G. Walter Ratcliff,
of Newcastle, has a clear field for
the office of vice-president. All of the candidates have started their
campaign and have solicited the
various chapters for support.

ANNOUNCEMENT

A Great Free Demonstration of Scholl's Foot Comfort Service

SATURDAY, AUG. 14, 1915

Consult the Chicago Foot Specialist FREE

On this day FREE examination and advice will be given by an expert under the direction of Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, the famous foot specialist. He will also give demonstration of foot appliances necessary in the correction of foot troubles. This important event was arranged at great expense principally for you who have weak, tired, aching, calloused feet, for you who suffer from bunions, pains and corns, or who have broken down arches, crooked toes, and hammer toes, for you who have tried fruitlessly to get relief. Not obliged to buy shoes here. If you have flat foot, weak feet or broken down arches, no matter if you are already wearing arch supports, have your feet scientifically examined by this specialist and let him advise you what to do. If you have been using bunion and corn remedies that furnish temporary relief without correcting the cause be sure to get this scientific advice. If you are one of the many thousands who have always had trouble in being properly fitted to shape your footgear come to our store. The difficulty will be solved easily and simply and perfect foot comfort will be given you.

WARNING: You may not realize it but those slight aches at the heels and ankles, those painful cramped toes, that body weariness and brain fog are typical of weak arches and likely to result in a serious derangement of the whole nervous system. Many people have mistaken these pains for rheumatism and have tried internal remedies to correct them when all they really needed was proper support of the feet arches.

REASON FOR THIS DEMONSTRATION

It has been our ever constant aim to make this the most progressive shoe store in town. For months we have thoroughly investigated the efficiency of the service rendered users of Dr. Scholl's Foot Specialties and wearers of his appliances. We have seen people who previously walked with great difficulty now able to stand the most rigorous exercising of the feet, enduring long walks and long standing without the slightest annoyance. We have found everyone of Dr. Scholl's corrective devices anatomically correct and scientifically perfect. To give our patrons and friends the fullest benefit of the Scholl Foot Comfort Service we have arranged this demonstration and will henceforth conduct in our store an orthopedic department for continued service of this character. We are headquarters for Scholl's Foot Comfort Specialties and Appliances.

THERE'S A SCHOLL APPLIANCE FOR EVERY FOOT AILMENT OR DEFORMITY

Whatever your foot troubles may be, there is a Scholl appliance or device which will correct permanently the trouble from which you are suffering. Consult this noted specialist and let him advise you about your trouble.

Obituary.

Gladys May Mapes was born at Glenwood, Ind., Oct. 22d 1893 and died August 6th, 1915. She attended the home school for eleven years, completing her last year of high school at Rushville where she graduated in 1911.

The following September she entered the Hes Devor Business College in Indianapolis and in a short while completed the course and accepted a position in the office of Robinson, Synnues and Marsh which she held for more than 3 years.

Last summer she contracted pneumonia and came home for a few months.

In October she returned to the city and remained in the same office until the 29th of May of this year. Finding her strength failing she came home for a rest which she has found in the arms of her Savior she loved and trusted.

She united with the Meridian street M. E. church at Indianapolis, where she took an active part in the Sunday school and other church affairs. After returning to the city last September she made her home near Cumberland and changed her membership to the M. E. church there.

She was an interested and active member there until she was called home.

Gladys numbered friends by all who knew her. She ever had a smile and a kind word for all. She was a loving daughter and sister.

During her last illness she was patient and uncomplaining.

As she fell asleep she murmured "Mama don't cry, Jesus is with us. There is no flock how-ere tended. But has one dead Lamb there. There is no household how-ere defended. But has one vacant chair."

RAISING POULTRY For PROFIT

By John Wildig

Only a comparatively few years ago the hen which is honored and respected today by most everyone was considered a necessary evil which belonged to the farm, not because of the revenue she would produce, but because it was the custom. As the wheels of progress made a few turns, the means of transportation were improved so that supply and demand were equalized by taking the products from distant farms to the densely populated cities and the cold storage plants were developed, thus distributing the products through the year. The little hen, formerly considered insignificant, rose to prominence until she now represents what is said to be a billion dollar industry. The methods of farming are changing rapidly from the extensive to the intensive and as the change takes place the hen gradually presses forward, for she plays a very important part in intensive farming. The same thing is true with poultry as with horses, sheep, cattle, hogs, etc., namely, that when man becomes dependent upon them for the principal part of his support, he takes more interest and puts forth more effort to improve them.

One of the first moves to improve poultry was the poultry show. They have done so much good and increased the popularity of poultry to such an extent that almost every state and country has its poultry shows. Most of the good one by the poultry shows has been due to the makers of the American standard of perfection, which is the judges' guide, who made the standard shapes conform so nearly to the shapes of the best producers. The interest, however, in the shows was so great that many flocks of hens were produced with only the fine show points in mind and the quality of egg production was partly overlooked or ignored all together. Only a few years ago the trap nest was introduced, which made it possible to know accurately the sire and dam of each chick so that accurate pedigree records could be kept. This was a boon to the poultry industry in general for it made it possible for both the utility and fancy poultryman to know the breeding of their birds.

There are two factors which determine both fancy and utility values, one is breeding and the other is environment. Failures come from a lack of either factor. One poultryman has a well bred strain, but fails from proper feed and care. Another man puts forth great energy and spends time and money making all conditions ideal for the poultry to succeed but fails because of poor breeding in his flock.

COTTON EXPORTS HAVE INCREASED

For First Five Months of War Time Period Amount Shipped Out Exceeded Previous Year

NEW CROP IN FINE CONDITION

Domestic Consumption About Normal And Price is Higher Than Anyone Predicted

(By United Press.)

Washington, Aug. 11.—Contrary to general belief, our cotton exports for the first five months of 1915, (war time), exceeded exports for the corresponding period in 1914, (peace time).

Since war began much discussion of cotton crop has been and is taking place without full knowledge of the facts, which are:

The 1914 crop was 15,873,000 bales, with 1,328,600 bales left from 1913 and 303,400 bales imported, making a total visible supply of 17,509,000 bales on hand, June 1, 1915 12,562,000 bales had been exported or used here, leaving 4,947,000 bales.

The total bales exported from Aug. 1, 1914 to June 11, 1915, is 868,000 bales less than for the same period of 1913; but for the first five months of this year 5,180,363 bales were exported as compared with 3,139,087 in the same period of 1914.

It seems likely the exports for the ensuing months will be even greater.

During the last few weeks principal factors affecting the Liverpool cotton market seem to be the following:

(a) Abundant stocks at Liverpool and elsewhere.

(b) Deliveries to Liverpool in excess of speculative contracts.

(c) The lack of full revival of normal trade conditions in manufactured products.

(d) The good condition reported for the new cotton crop in the South. (The cotton acreage has not yet been reported.)

Minor factors which seem to have affected the Liverpool and other cotton markets are:

(a) Uncertainty as to the duration of present conditions.

(b) The quantity and disposition of prize cotton in England.

(c) The entrance of Italy into the war.

(d) The disturbance of shipping both of belligerent and neutral countries.

The domestic consumption of cotton has been about as much as was anticipated, export of cotton much larger than was anticipated, and the price received higher than most people would have been willing to predict last fall.

A system of accounts for small farmers' co-operative selling organizations has been worked out and may be obtained on request from the Department of Agriculture.

Half a million free injections of tuberculin for cattle are sent out annually by the Department of Agriculture. Any county, city or state may obtain a supply free by promising to report to the government the result of its use.

Powered hellebore mixed with water and sprinkled in and around garbage cans and like places where the larvae is deposited, will keep millions of houseflies from hatching, says the Department of Agriculture. Hellebore is cheap and does not endanger livestock or crops.

LABOR HELPING TO SAVE NATION

Socialists in England Are Working Hand in Hand With Government—Forced to Give in

RAPIDLY FORGETTING PAST

But When War is Over They Will Have Something to Say, According to Leader

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
London, Aug. 1 (By Mail)—
"British labor is today working hand in hand with the government to save the nation. That, for the moment, is the status of British labor. But—after it is all over British labor will have something to say to the British government."

This was today the unqualified statement to the United Press of Ramsey McDonald, member of Parliament and leader of the British socialists.

The "something" that British labor will have to say to the government after the war, according to MacDonald, is that, "war is unnecessary and the elements that make war possible must be wiped out."

"But in the meantime," continued MacDonald, "British labor has come to the stage of realization that the government must be helped out of its difficulty and inevitably British labor must forget the past and look to the future by helping the government fight for its existence."

British tradesunion members and leaders are now in khaki by thousands and tens of thousands and are putting in hard liels in war munition factories and other government work, declared MacDonald.

"Do you mean that labor henceforth will overlook all its industrial grievances and postpone these grievances and strikes until after the war?" was asked.

"For the present labor is forced to give in. It is inevitable at this time," answered MacDonald.

Labor leaders do not object to Walter Long's national registry bill requiring all persons in England between the ages of 15 and 65 to declare their fitness for war work, but they look upon it as something that may lead to a form of conscription, according to MacDonald. He added:

"This bill embraces the provision of compulsory registration and lays down certain penalties. I hardly think it will result in conscription but in the hands of a clever minister it can be brought around and twisted to assume practically the same form. British labor cannot object to this because its hands are tied by penalties exacted, but the workmen of this country will violently object to absolute bald military conscription because it is unnecessary. The government has been informed of the workmen's intention, and that is to stay in the fight and help save the country. When the country is saved the workmen will say what he has to say."

British labor, MacDonald concluded, would hardly attempt any nation tie-up even in the event of impending military conscription but would oppose such an issue in every other possible way.

Appeals to Patriotism

Endeavoring to evade an accounting to the American people for bad legislation and worse administration, Democratic leaders are putting up a pitiful plea of "Stand by the President." So far as foreign complications are concerned, the plea is entirely unnecessary. American citizens, regardless of nativity, color, sex or political affiliation will support the President in every effort to maintain the honor and dignity of the United States.

But that has absolutely nothing whatever to do with discussion of domestic affairs. Because of a split in the Republican party, the Democrats were lifted into power by a minority vote representing the principles in which the majority do not believe. This is a government of, by and for the people, and the people propose to have their laws made and administered according to their own desire. They propose to discuss and expose the result of Democratic rule. They propose to make war upon Democratic policies and they don't intend to wage battle with stuffed clubs. This is a fight by the people, for the people, and against an incompetent, inefficient, pledge-breaking political aggregation known as the Democratic party.

The Democrats took charge of this Government when the country was prosperous, when high standards of efficiency ruled in government service when public money was being spent economically, when there was a surplus in the treasury, and when men everywhere had employment at wages that enabled them to pay their bills.

By the enactment of a Democratic tariff law, American industry was paralyzed. By the overthrow of the merit system, the diplomatic service and the administration departments were seriously impaired. A large surplus in the treasury was turned into deficit. The cost of living increased at the same time that the buying power of the people was reduced. Such is the manner in which public business has been conducted. If these facts are not to be shown to the American people—if it is "lese majesty" to tell the truth about the people's business—if we must close our eyes to government at home and re-elect an administration because governments are at war in Europe,—then we may as well cease to claim that we have popular government in this country.

The higher the office, the greater the power, the wider the influence and the greater the responsibility—the more important it is that there be full and free discussion and honest criticism of official action. No man can oppose such discussion and such criticism without doing violence to the principles of liberty upon which this government was founded. No man who owes allegiance to the Democratic party can protest against the closest scrutiny of the record of that party without tacitly admitting a feeling of guilt and shame. Along with his appeal to patriotism he should change his party affiliations or confess himself an intellectual mountebank.

Noting the practical disappearance of the progressive party in New York state, the New York Tribune says: "This disintegration isn't so surprising. The average American wants to make his vote 'count.' Even when voting as a protest he wants to help defeat the candidate he has it in for by voting directly for the candidate who can beat him rather than for a third candidate. Moreover, most of the progressives having been republicans originally because they believed in the superior merits of that party's men and morals, they have tired of helping to put Tammany partially or completely in power in state. Good fighters—or they wouldn't have joined the new party—they want now to take up the fight for the things they believe in within the republican organization, where there seems more chance of accomplishing something for them, if victorious, than within a party which can't hope to elect a candidate if it nominates him. The progressive party's third birthday found it, in this state, fighting a serious case of infantile paralysis, and even the optimistic colonel can have little hope for the patient. Fortunately its demise for modern things in politics, since the thousands of progressive young republicans can now be reinforced by their former colleagues, the ex-bull moose."

FLIES FIGHT FOR TURKEY.

London, Aug., 1: (By Mail) The Allied forces in the Dardanelles are not only fighting Turks but a formidable army of flies.

The flies are even worse than the Turks, writes a correspondent from Gallipoli.

Food is black with flies the instant it is brought to light and sleep is almost impossible due to the constant buzzing attacks of the winged enemy. Jam, which enters largely into the sweets of army stores, is pounced upon greedily and it is only by dexterous and long practiced maneuvers that a soldier is able to beat the flies to the eating of it.

Midsummer in Gallipoli finds the soldiers wearing khaki drill shirts, trousers that end just above the knee.

Cigarettes on the peninsula are an absolute luxury, according to the correspondent. The soldiers are willing to pay a heavy price for cigarettes sold by small Green "canteens," behind the Allied lines. The cigarettes are made in Germany but the troops smoke them just the same.

Americans felt very powerful the other morning when the New York Times showed that there are in this country 17,000,000 able-bodied men capable of serving in an army. But only 61 in each 10,000 have had any military training!

When one comes to think of it, the British Empire, with 438,000,000 population, ought to have over 70,000,000 available men, but Great Britain unprepared, cuts a sorry figure against an Empire one-sixth its own size, and Russia, unprepared is fleeing before the armies of a nation of much less than half its population.

"Is America learning this lesson?" the real American papers are asking.

The creation of an American merchant marine was a big issue in the last Congress, but the President's plan was brought to naught. Now Great Britain is planning a line through to the Panama Canal to the west coast of South America, and the American Trans-Atlantic Company has gathered up eleven neutral vessels and put them under the American flag.

On July 31 the net balance in the general fund of the United States Treasury was $68,173,462 as compared with $132,263,619 two years ago under Republican revenue laws and appropriations. At the end of the first month of the new fiscal year disbursements had exceeded receipts by $16,171,757, which is the amount of deficit accumulated during July.

Again has the war been brought close home by the halting of the Dutch liner Nickerie, right off the New Jersey coast, by the British cruiser Isis, and the taking off of two German cabin passengers.

William L. Taylor has let it be known among his friends that he will seek the nomination for United States senator on the Republican ticket.

When an actress needs some publicity, she goes to the war zone and becomes a nurse.

Current Comments

Republicans Hopeful.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.) The six conferences of party workers that have been held in various sections of the state under direction of Chairman Bamber of the Republican State Central Committee have demonstrated that the hopelessness that came upon Missouri Republicans, especially in the rural districts, following the calamity of 1912, has disappeared. Never in the history of the party were the men who keep in touch with popular sentiment more confident of Republican victory in state and nation than they are now. The fact that 500 representative citizens from fourteen counties gathered, in mid-summer, as they did at Springfield, over a year before the primary, to discuss ways and means of insuring a sweeping victory, is eloquent testimony as to the militant spirit of the party. The multitude of candidates furnishes additional evidence of confidence. A Republican nomination next year will be worth while. During the four hours of speech-making at Springfield there were no references to getting together. The Republicans of Missouri are together. The question is the perfecting of an organization and the selection of such candidates as well be worthy of the trust imposed in them. The prospects of Republican victory in this state have been conceded by a few frank Democrats and that there is alarm among all the leaders is evidenced by their unusual activity.

The Republicans feel their responsibility. While they will spare no efforts to make victory certain, they are not certain only about victory. They earnestly desire to be worthy of victory. In various sections of the state men of the highest standing and greatest ability are being urged to become candidates, not because there is a dearth of volunteers, but because there are problems in this state whose solution will require the finest abilities and the ripest experience. The Democratic politicians who have been in charge of affairs are deficient both in purpose and in ability. Their unpopularity is generally admitted. But the Republicans do not wish to be mere temporary beneficiaries; they desire to elect men who will so ably administer the affairs of the state that Missouri will become reliably Republican. To accomplish this it will be necessary for Republicans who have no axes to grind, who have pride in their party and who are loyal to their state, to take an active part in shaping the preliminaries of next year's struggle.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

Down at Seymour farmers were tickled through and through Tuesday when it rained—actually tickled. Newspaper there indicate that all of the wheat is threshed and that the farmers have nothing to worry about at all. They thought they needed a little rain for their corn.

James Whitcomb Riley visited the Bartholomew county fair at Columbus yesterday and the citizens there made a great day of it, even if the reception committee did lose the Hoosier poet out in the country near Columbus. The committee started in automobiles to meet Riley, who came by auto. They were on the wrong road and had about dispaired of finding Riley, when a fellow came running up with the information that, "an automobile decorated with flags just went down the road over there and I'll bet that was Riley." Without regard for speed laws, the committee bounced away and finally overtook the Riley car before it reached Columbus. Rain fell most of the day, but Riley didn't care for, "When God sorts out the weather and sends rain, 'W'y rain's my choice."

The Whitewater Baptist association, which is more than 100 years old, will hold its annual session in Greenfield beginning next Friday and continuing through Sunday. The association comprises churches in the territory bounded by an irregular line connecting Fortville, Newcastle, Connersville, Rushville and Indianapolis.

The Greensburg city council has before it a proposition to build a city hospital.

The ninety-third annual session of the Flatrock Baptist association, which comprises twenty-seven churches, including the First Baptist church here, will be held at Shelbyville Thursday and Friday, August 19 and 20.

Helen Keller appeared at the Shelbyville chautauqua last night and was at the Greensburg chautauqua today.

The Connersville Tri Kappas are busy selling tickets for the Lincoln circuit chautauqua which will be held there the last of this month. Con-nersville gave up the idea of having a chautauqua this year, but the Tri Kappas took up the plan recently and hope to make some money for local charities.

HOOSIER HISTORY

Early Mail Service.

"One of the greatest privations of the pioneers' exile was the absence of letters from home. There was no post and every one was dependent upon chance travellers to "fetch and carry mail." When any one was going on a journey it would be known, and the whole region would bring letters for him to take with him, for postage on a letter cost forty cents. Many of these missives from the frontier were written with a quill pen, dipped in pokeberry juice for ink. It was a great thing, wrote an old lady in later times, when the pioneer began to get mail regularly twice a month. Sounding his horn, the postman approached on horseback, and every one came trotting out of the house to get a letter from 'back east.' Sometimes he would be several days behind time on account of high water. It often happened that the postmaster had to spread the mail out in the sun to dry." Julia H. Levering in "Historic Indiana."

EARLY TRAVELING

In the earlier territorial period when the wilderness was still untraced by roads, there was little use for wagons. People walked or rode horseback. In the absence of bridges every wide stream must be forded. In case a tree had fallen across, the horse had to "toe the log." The few who made themselves wagons, as time passed," writes Julia Levering, in "Historic Indiana," made their harness of strips of deer hide and hickory bark, and the horsecollars were braided corn husks. But horses were very scarce, and two men would often ride the tie on their way to town. That is, one would ride a mile or two, then tie the horse and walk on. When the other man came up, he would untie the horse and ride until he overtook his companion. When a man and his wife went on a journey, she rode behind, on the same horse; generally both carried a young child in their arms.

Going to Mill

Horse mills were set up in crudest fashion, as soon as wheat was raised; but as early as possible, in every neighborhood where there was available water-power, one of the settlers would build a dam, and start a mill, either for manufacturing woolens or grinding grain or both. The people rode from ten to thirty miles to these mills, and often had to wait three or four days and nights for their grist. The grain was brought in bags on horseback and the boys or men camped about the mill, visiting, playing games, and telling stories until their turn came. The miller took "toll" for his work, generally at the rate of one fourth of the grain ground, and every man had to bolt his own flour from the chaff. From that fact you could always tell when a man had been to mill.—Julia H. Levering in "Historic Indiana."

RED MEN TACKLE K. O. P. TEAM FRIDAY

Game Will Determine Leadership,
For Time Being, in Fraternal
League—Both Out to Win.

CONTEST WILL START AT 3:15

The Knights of Pythias and Red Men will cross bats Friday afternoon at Edgewater park and the outcome of the game will determine the leadership of the Fraternal league. Considerable interest is shown in this game. It will be the first meeting of the two teams and as the two are evenly matched according to the dope, a hot contest is expected.

By winning the Red Men can go into first place and by losing they will go into a tie for the cellar position. The K. of P. team has a chance to better its hold on the lead in the league and for this reason both teams will be out to win. The largest crowd thus far in the fraternal league season is expected. The game will be called at 3:15 o'clock.

REGULATIONS TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED

Sportsmen Are Warned About Federal Laws Concerning Shooting of Wild Fowl.

OPEN SEASON APPROACHES

Washington, August 11.—With the approach of the open season for shooting wild fowl, the United States Department of Agriculture is warning sportsmen that the Federal regulations as amended October 1, 1914, will be strictly enforced. Some misunderstanding has arisen from the fact that the various State laws do not always conform to the Federal regulations. This is regarded as unfortunate but in such cases the Department must insist upon the observance of the Federal regulations.

The Department will consider any recommendations submitted in good faith for amendment of the regulations, but will hold no public hearings thereon, nor will it amend the regulations prior to October 15, 1915. It is the purpose of the Department to conform the regulations to the wishes of the majority of sportsmen so far as it can be done and at the same time give wild fowl the necessary protection.

Federal regulations divide the United States into two zones, Zone No. 1, the breeding zone, includes the States of Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey and all States north of them. Zone No. 2, the wintering zone, includes all States south of those named.

announcement will be made concerning the destination of the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire until that destination has been reached. This was considered as meaning Vera Cruz with certainty, as there are no apparent reasons for secrecy were they bound for any other port.

Mexican developments were awaited here with intensest anxiety. Army and navy department officials were preparing to shape their courses on the shortest notice, according to advices from Vera Cruz, New York or direct from the president at Cornish.

A sudden alarm was deemed likeliest from Vera Cruz. An outbreak of violence was considered a distinct possibility. Protection would be given foreigners, it was said at the state department.

PREPARING FOR EMERGENCY

Total Cost Including Uniform And Food is Figured at $40—College
Boys There

(By United Press.)

New York, Aug. 10.—The wide interest in the question of military preparedness has sent a large number of New Yorkers to the military training camp for business and professional men at Plattsburg, near the U. S. Army post. The period of training is from today to Sept. 6. The organization of camp grew out of the success of the camp for college men just ended, and the desire expressed by older men to receive the same training.

It is explained that participating in the training offered does not increase the legal or moral obligation of those who attend. The course of instruction is designed to aid in filling with educated men the great deficiency in commissioned officers that would immediately arise in case of a national emergency that required the raising of a large volunteer army. The training is along this line, rather than for service in the ranks.

In view of the utter lack of a reserve body of officers such as would be necessary to organize and command volunteer troops, attendance at the camp is encouraged by U. S. Army officers, including General Leonard Wood, as an important and most useful public service.

U. S. Army officers will furnish the instruction. The course comprises company and battalion drill, the mechanism and use of modern rifles, target practice, military hygiene, tactics, strategy, etc. Manoeuvres, with regular troops representing the opposing forces, will be held toward the close of the camp. Men attending must provide themselves with uniform consisting of one suit of cotton olive drab, one extra pair of breeches, campaign hat, two pairs of stout walking boots, one pair of leggings and two cotton or wool olive drab shirts. The total cost, including uniform, food and all expenses except railroad fare is figured at $40.

JONES TO MAKE TWO STARTS THURSDAY

Local Trainer Leaves For Grand Rapids to Drive Fay Richmond and the Importer Both Pacers.

FORMER SAID TO BE FAST

Harrie Jones left Tuesday evening for Grand Rapids, Mich., where he will start two horses in the grand circuit this week. Fay Richmond and The Importer, the only two he has taken on to the big rings, are both scheduled to make their first starts Thursday. Fay Richmond will start in the 2:06 class pacing and the Importer will be in the 2:09 class of pacers when the starter says go.

Fay Richmond, a son of New Richmond, is looked upon as a comer and many experts believe he will burn up the grand circuit this year. He has been pacing miles on the Riverside track close to two minutes. He went the last half in one minute flat the other day, it is authoritatively reported. It will be Mr. Jones' first start this season. He nearly always drives winners.

SINGLE G. LOSES GRAND RAPIDS RACE

Cambridge City Horse is Only Fa-

DID NOT HAVE ENOUGH REST

Single G. was the only favorite beaten Tuesday at the grand circuit races in Grand Rapids. Single G. driven by Gosnell found the going a little hard in the 2:08 pace and the best Gosnell could do was to take third money. Geers, driving Russell Boy, won the race in straight heats. Single G. finished second in the first heat, fourth in the second and third in the final heat. The purse was for $3,000.

Local backers of Single G. state that the horse did not have sufficient rest, as Gosnell drove the horse to a win last Saturday. The best time in the race yesterday was 2:02 1/2, made in the second heat. Russell Boy traveled the first heat in 2:04 1/2 and the last in 2:04 1/2.

BATTLES DO NOT CAUSE RAINFALL

Theory That War May Also be Blamed For Wet Weather Exploded by a Federal Authority.

NO BASIS REASON FOR IT

The theory that the excessive rainfall which eastern Indiana has experienced, was due to heavy cannonading on European battlefields, received a death blow in a communication received from the department of agriculture at Washington, by a man who sought enlightenment on the subject. The letter reads:

"Replying to your letter of July 31, you are informed that no basic reason can be given for the excessive rainfall in certain portions of the country at the present time. It will probably be interesting to you to be informed that there is also a deficiency of rainfall in many sections of the country and that the average rainfall for the entire United States is about normal. The European war has nothing to do with this condition."

The letter is signed by H. J. Cox, professor of meteorology.

Reports of drought in Hungary failed to shake the belief of some Rushville people that the unusual weather conditions here were due to the European struggle.

fold," Mr. Artman says.

"1. To prevent accidents, or, at most, to reduce those that do occur to the inevitable class.

"2. To supply to injured employees and their dependents an absolutely certain indemnity in case of injury."

Those who operate under the compensation act in Indiana will escape the obnoxious litigation which inevitably results from injury to workmen, and instead of the usually long-delayed settlement of claims of workmen against their employers where injuries result the settlement will be made as soon as the necessary details are completed by the industrial board.

Its chief benefits to the employee and employer alike come from the definite and certain settlements, together with the certainty of the amounts for which settlements are to be made. The law specifies exactly what is to be paid to injured workmen in all industrial accidents, which are classified in the act.

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)

"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."

"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'sentinel' tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Sentinel tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blotches, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)

Unightly eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowel—and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to cosmetic applications, which can never have natural, permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy, to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need now be deprived of its wonderful benefits.

"Sentinel tablets"—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need only get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at bedtime to realize there's nothing else quite so good for the purpose. The action in the morning is so easy, so soothing, and instead of a weakening after-effect, you feel truly refreshed and invigorated. Sentinel tablets are not only the finest remedy known for constipation and torpid liver, but offer the sanest, most sensible treatment for complexion difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

They say that the advent of the "sentinel tablet" as a vegetable substitute for calomel has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.

Sentinel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functioning—instead of encouraging the "cathartic habit." Also, instead of injuring the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so easily and gently, they are of course preferred on this account to the violently acting purgatives. Their inexpensiveness is another reason for the popularity of the "sentinel" tablets. One need procure only a dime's worth, and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and other evil consequences, has finally been found.—Druggists Review.

NEW SYSTEM TO MARKET MELONS

"Eat 'Em While They're Good" is Motto Adopted by Many Gibson County Farmers.

THEY ARE SHIPPING DIRECT

Princeton, Ind., August 11.—"Eat 'em while they're good."

That's the motto adopted by a number of Gibson County farmers who have started in a system of marketing melons which they believe will eventually be generally used by growers. They are shipping only guaranteed cantaloupes—guaranteeing to replace every basket or crate containing melons of poor quality—and they are shipping direct to the consumer.

The commission houses are avoided, thus saving time during which melons that have been shipped and reshipped often get in bad condition.

Gibson county cantaloupes are picked from the field one day, sun ripened, judged by an expert, and packed and shipped that afternoon. They reached the consumer the next morning. In this way the entire central west can be served in twenty-four hours, and the melons aren't picked green to ripen in commission houses.

Charles G. Taylor, manufacturer and farmer, who had several years of experience in the Rocky Ford, Col., melon fields, conceived the idea. A dozen growers have enlisted with him. Each farm is numbered so that unsatisfactory melons can be traced to the proper farm for replacing. These growers are in the heart of the narrow cantaloupe belt stretching from southern Vigo county south through Sullivan, Know and Gibson counties into Posey county and including the great Decker and Know county fields.

The Gibson county farmers selling guaranteed melons are known as the Union Melon Farms. Gibson's agricultural agent called a meeting of cantaloupe growers and from the interest displayed it is considered likely farmers in other counties will next year adopt the method outlined.

Wellington, New Zealand, (By Mail)—A small embroidered flag sold at auction, at Martinsborough, a small New Zealand town, brought $12,000 for The Belgian Relief fund. The town council auctioned the flag. It was sold ten times to the highest bidder, who, in turn, gave it back to the auctioneer. Finally it was presented to the local school.

London, July 21: (By Mail)—When the Allies force the Dardanelles—if they do—one of the most important victories of the war will have been won, according to a neutral diplomat who arrived today from the Near East.

The general assumption in England, and elsewhere, that the operation on Gallipoli peninsula and in the straits are a costly side issue is wrong, he declared. If the allies lose 100,000 men in forcing the Turks back to Constantinople and eventually taking the Turkish capital, these men will have been well spent.

Not only will victory for the Allies in the Dardanelles have a great moral effect on the war situation but it will mean that Russia's fighting capabilities will be doubled if not trebled. Russia today has millions of men trained and ready and eager to fight the enemy, but waiting—waiting for their rifles, guns, shells and munitions which England, France and America can pour into Russia in the necessary quantities and with the necessary speed through the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. Victory in the Near East would also virtually raise the present siege of Russia by Germany and Austria.

The eyes of the entire neutral world are today glued on the Dardanelles operations, according to this authority.

AGENT FOR ALL ORDER HOUSES

Indiana Advocates Buying Away From Home in Circular Sent Out to Township Trustees.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES QUOTED

Indiana Manufacturer Shows in Two Cases Where he Can Far Underbid the Quotations.

Indianapolis, Ind., August 11.—Her is a piece of news for the merchants of Indiana.

Under a Democratic administration the state of Indiana, in effect, has become the agent for two Chicago mail order houses—Montgomery Ward & Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Last week the state board of accounts scattered broadcast over Indiana a pamphlet entitled "Price List for Guidance of Township Trustees." While there are a number of Indiana concerns which manufacture play ground material, not one of them is listed in this official guide. However, the prices of the two Chicago mail order houses are listed on all kinds of playground material, including swings, settees, tennis rackets, footballs, tennis balls, rubber hose and a number of other things that are manufactured in Indiana and sold by hundreds of Indiana merchants.

One of the Chicago mail order houses quoted price of $4.50 on swings made out of beech wood. A representative of an Indiana manufacturer said today that he would be glad to sell a million made out of oak for $4 each. The Chicago mail order house quoted a price of $7.50 for a four passenger settee and the Indiana manufacturer quoted a price on a six passenger settee of the same design of $4.50.

When the members of the state board of accounts realized that they had made a big mistake in sending out these Chicago mail order price lists they promised to not send out any more until an insert had been printed containing the prices of one Indiana concern. The representative of this concern questioned Gilbert Hendren as to why the board had seen fit to advise patronizing foreign concerns and he quoted Hendren as saying in explanation: "We did it because a majority of the township trustees in Indiana have no knowledge as to where to buy or how to buy or how much to pay for such material."

It is not known whether the board decided to issue this price list only after hearing of the experiences township trustees in Clay and Vigo county had with George M. Ray, publisher of the official Democratic organ of Indiana, who was saved from going to the penitentiary after having pleaded guilty to a charge of "overcharging" by the interference of Governor Ralston, who secured freedom for him by writing a letter to the judge of the Clay circuit court.

APPLY BUSINESS TO ROAD MAKING

This is Aim of Indiana State Automobile Association in Campaign to Pass Laws

EXPERT KNOWLEDGE NEEDED

There Should be Different Types of Construction According to Amount of Travel

The application of business methods to road building and road maintenance throughout the state of Indiana, will be one of the results of the legislation for which the Indiana State Automobile Association is working which it proposes to introduce at the next session of the legislature which will convene in January 1917.

Road building and road maintenance is a science, and as such, requires expert knowledge, both as regards the method of construction and the kind of materials used. This is a fact generally recognized by all European countries and by over 40 states in this country which have their roads constructed under expert supervision. In these states and countries roads are built according to the traffic passing over them and constructed of laboratory tested materials that have proven to be the most economical and the best investment of the taxpayers money for that class of traffic.

In Indiana, it is well established fact that 90% of the travel is over only 20% or one one-fifth of our roads. This means, that from the point of view of scientific road building and economy in the expenditure of the taxpayers money, we should have different types of construction according to the traffic. Under our present system this is impossible because of the fact, that the entire cost of building and maintaining these main arteries of travel is borne entirely by the townships and counties through which they pass, notwithstanding, the fact that only a very small percentage of the traffic over these roads originates in the township or county. The remainder and much larger portion, being from other townships or counties and other states.

Under a system of state supervision and state and federal aid this situation would be remedied, first, by the state specifying a road of the proper construction and materials for each class of traffic and supervising its construction and maintenance. And secondly, by making the entire wealth of the state contribute to the expense of the same instead of, while 40 per cent of the entire taxable wealth of the state within city limits contributes practically nothing toward the construction and maintenance of the public roads of the state which they use continually and which are a benefit to every resident of the state.

With the general ownership of cars in this state there is a growing sentiment for better roads, more of them and the more efficient expenditure of the taxpayers money. Through the efforts of the Indiana State Automobile Association, the organization of the individual motor car owners of the state, it is hoped to accomplish the ends desired. These accomplishments can be brought about because the Association's membership in every community will represent the best interests there, and these members having no personal interest to advance will be able to consider the road situation from an unbiased standpoint. The management of the affairs of the Association rests with the board of directors elected from the state at large, thereby making it a truly representative body. The motorists of the state are very enthusiastic over the plans and aims of the Association and are zealously co-operating everywhere with the Association's Field Secretaries in building up local affiliated associations.

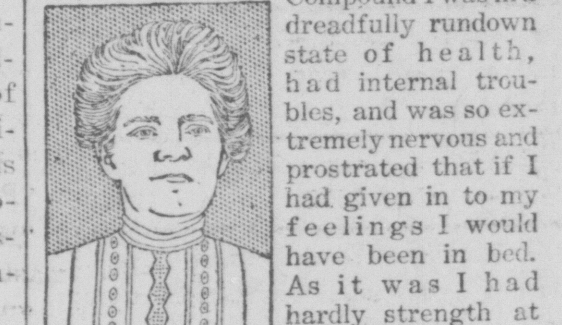

Indiana is beginning its road work at a very logical time and is in a position to profit by the mistakes and experiments of other states. Road building today is a business of its own. What Indiana needs is a highway department in charge of a competent road engineer who shall be made responsible for the expenditure of all moneys provided by the taxpayers of the state. The people of Indiana pay millions for roads annually but because of lack of responsibility, are getting back but a small percentage for every dollar appropriated. What is the answer?

WOMAN WOULD NOT GIVE UP

Though Sick and Suffering; At Last Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Richmond, Pa. — "When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health, had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my feet and what I did do was by a great effort. I could not sleep at night and of course felt very bad in the morning, and had a steady headache."

"After taking the second bottle I noticed that the headache was not so bad, I rested better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued its use until it made a new woman of me, and now I can hardly realize that I am able to do so much as I do. Whenever I know any woman in need of a good medicine I highly praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. FRANK CLARK, 3146 N. Tulip St., Richmond, Pa.

Women Have Been Telling Women for forty years how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It will pay you to do so. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Defends His Policy of Changing Rural Mail Service to Prevent Retracing on Routes

READJUSTMENT UNDER WAY

Admits Business Depression, But States That Parcel Post Business Has Increased

BY LOWELL MELLETT
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Aug. 11.—"What do you want to talk about?" asked the Postmaster General.

"Politics."

"Nothing doing," said the Postmaster General, cordially.

"Why not?"

"I absolutely can't won't and shan't talk politics," said Mr. Burleson. "Try something else."

"All right, but why do they call you the politician of the cabinet?"

"I suppose that is because you writing people have to coin catch phrases to describe, catalogue, classify, and in some degree dramatize public men in the public eye. That's only my opinion. You folks did it and ought to know why."

"Speaking of politics—"

"We aren't speaking of politics," said the Postmaster General.

"What means this holler in the rural districts about restrictions of the rural free delivery?"

The Postmaster General had been at least half-interested in the papers on his desk, but now he swung sharply around in his chair. He removed his nose glasses—probably to save them from the heat of the sudden blaze in his eyes.

"There has been no restriction! Who says there has been? A revision is under way which gives service to many hundred thousands who are entitled to it, but heretofore have been denied it. This is being done without increasing the cost of the postal service and without taking away service from anyone who now has it. It is accomplished with money saved by eliminating waste effort, extravagance, special favors and privileges."

"Just for example: Parts of hundreds of rural routes have been traveled daily by two or more rural carriers. There are cases in which as many as six or seven carriers, each getting from $1000 to $1200 a year, having been going over the same eight or ten miles of road. Politics! This vicious duplication of service was built up through a series of years by political influence. By cutting out these duplications we get a balance available for service in territory that has long deserved it."

"Do you know what retraces are? No. Well, I'll tell you. John Smith is a wealthy and influential farmer, living a half mile from a rural route. John uses his influence and gets an order requiring the rural carrier to go the half mile to his gate, deposit and collect mail and return to the main road a full mile of extra travel. Eliminating 26 such half-mile retraces is equivalent to eliminating an unnecessary rural route and special privilege amounting to $1200 a year."

"Between April 1 and July 10 the readjustment of the rural service and inauguration of motor vehicles service left $821,754 for establishing new routes. With part of this money 735 new routes have been put in operation, serving 85,748 additional families, or 428,740 additional persons."

"What of your fight with the railroads?"

"I wouldn't call it a fight."

"To an innocent newspaper reader it looks—"

"No, it isn't a fight. The question of railway mail pay is purely and solely a business question, to be decided on its merits after thorough sifting, deliberation and analysis of the facts. The Department desires to pay a rate reasonably compensatory to the railroads, taking into consideration all of the conditions of the service. Mails are not a commodity of commerce, and hence the question of whether a different yardstick should be applied to them is a debatable one. I have always held that while the mails may not be a commodity of commerce, transportation undoubtedly is; and that when the Post Office needs transportation it should pay a fair price for it.

"However, the Department is entitled to the lowest rate consistent with the business equities of the case. High cost articles of commerce which move in small volume and in exchange of which a large margin of profit is involved bear high transportation charges. The mails move in large volume, are easily handled, impose little risk on the carrier and constitute a traffic into which element of profit does not enter at all. To pay the roads more than a reasonable compensation on the basis, I have indicated would amount to levying an indirect tax upon the general public for the benefit of private interest."

"A painstaking and thorough investigation has been made, running over a long period of time. The tests of reasonableness have been completed, both as to the rates and the methods of adjusting pay, and the results have fully justified the postal authorities in resisting the claims of the railroads."

"The Government as a shipper of parcel post, should not be required to pay more than is charged other shippers for substantially the same service. There have been many instances where the railroads have carried the same matter both as express and as mail and have charged almost double for it as mail. Why should it cost the railroads any more to haul a given package because it carries the government label? How does an express company's label reduce the expense to the railroad?"

There being no apparent answer to this, the Postmaster General was asked what the next step would be.

"Largely because of the opposition to the railway mail section, the entire post office appropriation bill was defeated in the Senate last winter and the whole question went over to the coming Congress," he said. "Needless to say, I shall renew my recommendation on the subject. If the railroads are successful in their campaign for more pay, it will seriously hamper the proper development of the parcel post."

This brought us right up to the Postmaster General's favorite topic. He admitted he had taken more pleasure from the opportunity to build up the parcel post system than from any other branch of his work. It is apparent, he said, that the public appreciates the new service and wants it developed to its maximum.

"Notwithstanding the business depression caused by the war," said Mr. Burleson, "the flow of parcel mail has steadily increased. An enormous traffic has come into being in little more than two years."

"The parcel post knits our country more closely together. It is the farmer's sole express facility; the farmer buys and to some extent now, sells by mail. The Farm-to-Table adjunct of the parcel post offers the city householder the means of obtaining better farm produce at lower prices, and provides many farmers with a new lucrative market."

"Here's something you may not have thought of: As a result of the parcel post competition, all express traffic now moves much more rapidly."

"I realize that the commercial shipper has had grievances. Many boards of trade have passed resolutions declaring the present postal service lacks features of express service which for them are absolutely indispensable, such as receipts of parcels, indemnity to an unlimited amount for loss and damage and so on. Recently orders were issued granting the mailer of a parcel the privilege of obtaining a receipt on payment of one cent and increasing the size limit from 72 inches to 84 inches, length and girth combined. This will include the standard commercial crate. The pick-up, C. O. D. postage and further extension of the size and weight limits will come in time."

"When do you expect to see the Government ownership and postalization of the telegraph and telephone that you and other postmasters general have been recommending?" was a final question.

"That is hard to say. The control and operation of all vehicles for the transmission of intelligence should be in the hands of the Government. The function is specifically reserved to the government by the constitution. Telegraph and telephone utilities properly belong to the government by the constitution. "Whether this question appeals so forcibly to the public imagination that Congress will respond at once, is another question. Personally, I believe the time is not far away."

GOVERNOR WILL SPEAK AT WALDRON

Ralston Will Deliver Address at Annual Basket Meeting of Indiana Universalist Convention.

HELD AT THOMPSON HOME

Governor Samuel Ralston will deliver an address at Waldron on Sunday, September 12, in connection with the annual basket meeting of the Universalist Convention of Indiana to be held at the Delos H. Thompson Home for Aged Women. Announcement that the governor had been secured as one of the speakers for the meeting was made today by Melvin A. Beagle, of Indianapolis, treasurer of the convention. Mr. Beagle stated also that other prominent men from over the state will give talks at the meeting.

Mrs. Melvin Beagle is the matron in charge of the Home, which was given to the Universalist Convention by Mr. Thompson in his will a few years ago. Improvements including a big addition are being planned for the institution and it will soon be placed in condition that will make it stand second to none of the kind in the state. The Home is surrounded by a very fine natural park and is located on Conns creek at the outskirts of Waldron.

John F. Clifford, of Connersville, is the president of the convention and will preside at the Waldron meeting. The program will begin at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Electricity—Opens Soon.

IS NORTH OF CONNERSVILLE

Phil Wilk, Fred and John Newman have taken over the large gravel pit at Beeson Station, six miles north of Connerville, and are preparing to equip the pit with electrically operated machinery. The pit covers sixteen acres of land and is considered one of the best in the state. It was formerly controlled by the Lake Erie and Western railway. Arrangements have been made with an electrical company of Connerville for service and it is expected that the pit will be in operation within two weeks.

The new owners hope to be able to supply 200 yards of gravel a day and already have several large contracts. The new firm is known as Newman, Wilk and Newman and is separate entirely from the road contracting firm of Wilk & Co.

WAS ONCE LEADING COLLEGE

(By United Press.)

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 11.—Though the buildings and the school itself has long since passed away, former students and graduates of Battle Ground Collegiate Institute returned today for a reunion at the little town of Battle Ground north of here which once was the home of their alma mater. The institute was once the leading Methodist educational institution of the state and in the fifties and sixties many boys who afterwards became leading citizens of the state were students.

All that is left of the old school today is an old brick building which has been converted into a hotel. The old grads who returned today averaged 75 years of age. Prof. E. H. Staley of Frankfort, 90, is the sole survivor of the faculty and was present at today's reunion.

MERGER BEING CONSIDERED

Republican County Chairman Says
it Will be Discussed at Republican Love Feast.

Richmond, Ind., August 11.—Roy Fry of this city, secretary of the Wayne County Progressive Central committee, in an interview today said that no plans had been made for placing a Progressive county ticket in the field next year.

Secretary Fry further suggested the advisability of a joint meeting of the county Republican and Progressive committees for the purpose of considering the advisability of a merger of the two parties and the reorganization of the Republican party.

When informed today of Fry's suggestion that the Republican and Progressive organization hold a meeting for the purpose of discussing amalgamation, Louis S. Bowman, Republican county chairman, said:

"A Sixth district Republican love feast is to be held in Richmond early in October, the exact date not having been determined upon as yet. Everybody, Republican and Progressives, will be invited to participate in this, and two of the speakers will probably be Republican State Chairman Hayes and former Progressive State Chairman Toner, who recently returned to the Republican fold. At this love feast the matter of the Republicans and the Progressives getting together again will quite probably be discussed. With the last election the period of service of the members of both the Republican and the Progressive county central committees terminated and the men who served on those committees would have no authority to meet and discuss plans for a merger of the two parties and a reorganization of the Republican party."

ROAD MEN MEET ONCE MORE

Plan to Make Highway Real Competitor of Dixie Highway

(By United Press.)

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 11.—With the determination to make the proposed Cincinnati—South Bend road a strong competitor of the regular Dixie—Highway, representatives of practically all towns and cities along the route gathered here today for another meeting to stir up enthusiasm.

Representatives of southern Indiana towns propose a road from Louisville through southern Indiana to connect with the Cincinnati—South Bend road at Greensburg. The Greensburg—Louisville branch would connect Kentucky with northern Indiana.

DEMANDS U. S. STOP MEDDLING

Carranza Sends Curt Message to
Secretary of State Lansing at Washington Today.

"First Chief" Also Warns Latin-
American Diplomats to Keep
Countries From Conference.

General Funston Rushes Four Companies to Border When Bandit
Situation Gets Critical.

BY JOHN P. STEWART.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, August 11.—The Mexican situation developed rapidly
this afternoon.

General Carranza sent a note to Secretary Lansing advising him to
cease meddling in Mexican affairs.

Carranza warned each of the Latin-American diplomats to keep his country out of the Pan-American
conference on Mexican affairs.

Lansing received a strangely contradictory report from Consul Sillima that Vera Cruz is quiet and that
the Carranza government had issued
a proclamation deprecating anti-
American demonstrations. It directly conflicted with reports from
Commander McNamee, of the Vera
Cruz naval forces.

General Funston rushed four companies comprising the third battalion
of Ninth infantry by special train
to the Brownsville border country
following reports that the Mexican
bandit situation is critical.

Carranza's message was made
public here shortly before Lansing
in New York opened the final conference with Latin American diplomats in order to reach an agreement on the Mexican problem. His defiant utterances were addressed to Washington and to the diplomats at
an hour when American battleships
were known to be steaming toward Vera Cruz and the army holding it-
self along the Mexican border.

Carranza also asked the United States to permit the revolution in Mexico to take its course. He added the following statement concerning the Brazilian minister who
had been acting for the United States:

"I regret to say that the minister
has been one of the persons who has
brought the greatest evil on Mexico's republic and who in a certain
way may be responsible for the
present status of our relations with
States."

Carranza said that was meant for
the Brazilian government.

But the administration Mexican
program does not contemplate the
use of armed force, despite the preparation that is being made. This
was emphatically declared by a high
official today. The border will be defended, however.

Orders concentrating all available
regular troops on the Mexican border were looked for here some time
today.

Secretary Garrison significantly
admitted today that three army
transports are at Galveston and an-
other at New York, ready to sail,
presumably, though he did not say
so, for Mexican waters.

Secretary Garrison had in conference with him all the war department officials through whom a concentration order would be issued.
The navy department declared at

Autopsy Reveals he Was Suffering
With Gall Stones—Took Sick
Suddenly Last Night.

Micajah S. Shropshire, 79 years
old, a well known resident of this
city, died this morning at 7:20
o'clock at his home, 123 East Third
street, after a few week's illness
from gall stones. Mr. Shropshire
had been in ill health for some time,
but yesterday was up and about as
usual. Last night he was taken
suddenly worse and the end came
this morning. An autopsy revealed
gall stones.

Mr. Shropshire was a native of Kentucky, coming here at an early
date, and has since resided in this
city. He was born March 31, 1836.
He is survived by his widow and
one daughter, Mrs. Jap Creekmore,
of Indianapolis. Mr. Shropshire was
a member of the Main Street Christian church.

The funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at two
o'clock at the late residence, by the Rev. C. M. Yocum and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

NEED OVER $200,000 TO RUN THE COUNTY

Over Half of Estimate For 1916 Expenses is For the Redemption of

LAST OF COURT HOUSE BONDS

The council at the regular session
starting Tuesday, September 7 will
be asked to appropriate a total of $208,411.59, the estimated expense
of carrying on the business of Rush
county for the year 1916. One of the
surprising things in the auditor's
estimate is that over half of this
amount will go towards the redemption of gravel road bonds. The gravel road bonds falling due amount
to $105,813.59.

At this session of the county
council $10,250 will be asked for the payment of court house bonds. When this is paid Rush county's court house will have been paid for in full as this is the last batch of bonds to fall due. A total of $59,- 188 will be asked for the county
fund and $25,000 for the gravel
road repair fund.

A call meeting of the P. O. S. of
A. will be held Thursday to arrange
for the funeral of M. S. Shropshire.

TO LOSE WHOLE FIELDS OF WHEAT

Several Farmers Have Abandoned
Hundreds of Bushels of Grain
and Given it up as Lost.

Fair Weather Predicted For Thurs-
day, But Many Tillers of the Soil Have Despaired of That.

"Thursday fair," the weather
man's prediction for today, is calculated to raise the hopes of farmers, but they have almost ceased to
pin any faith in the weather man
because he has disappointed them
so much lately.

Every day it rains, many hundreds of dollars worth of wheat is
lost to Rush county farmers. None
can remember when threshing was
not completed, near August 1, but it
will be way past the middle of the
month before all of the wheat is in
the graineries or elevators this year.

Some instances are known where
farmers have abandoned whole
fields of wheat and have despaired
of every realizing on them at all.
These cases are rare, however. One
Rushville retired farmer, who owns
land north of the city, says he has
seven hundred bushels of wheat in
one field which can never be thresh-
ed.

The last time he saw the field the
water was up to the bands on the
bundles and much of it was floating
around in the water. This case was
in a field through which a closed
ditch ran. The ditch was unable to take care of the water when it rains
as hard as it has in the last few
days, which caused the field to be
flooded.

The hard rains of last night and
this morning prevented any thresh-
ing today in districts covered by the
rain was reported to be general all
over the county and was the hardest which has been seen during the
present wet spell.

The oats crop is in just as bad
condition as the wheat, whether or
not it has been cut.

In Wayne county, the Richmond
newspaper report, they have been
threshing at night in order to get as
much wheat as possible threshed
before the next rain. All farmers
living in the neighborhood park
their machines about the fields and
a few are stationed in the center.
Then the threshers proceed under
the glare of the automobile lights.

"If we thought next season was going to be like this one has been I
believe most Rush county farmers
would go back to the old fashioned
system of threshing wheat," one
disgusted tiller of the fields said to-
day. "Not so very long ago it was
the general custom to remove wheat
to barns and sheds after it had been
cut and keep it stored until thoroughly dry. Then it would be thresh-
ed, frequently after the arrival of
cold weather. In recent years farmers have kept their wheat in shocks
until dried and then thresh it in the fields where it was grown. Because
of the heavy rains all this summer
wheat has had little opportunity to
dry. When we will be able to plow
our fields for fall planting is a
question I cannot answer."

Garden truck is suffering equally
as much. One truck gardener is reported to have lost two hundred
bushels of onions because of the
excessive moisture and in several instances potatoes are rotting in
the ground.

NEW STATE LAW HAS WIDE SCOPE

Workmen's Compensation Act Ef-
fects Every Employer And Em-

And Fixing Payout on Ultimate
Consumer is Sought

Every man, woman, boy or girl
who is employed and every man,
woman, boy and girl who is an em-
ployer, will be affected, either directly or indirectly by the operation
of the new workmen's compensation
act, which becomes effective in Indiana on Sept. 1.

The workmen's compensation act
is a law designed to provide specific
and definite compensation for work-
ingmen and women in case of injury
and to eliminate the necessity of
going into court to obtain redress
for injuries suffered in any of the
thousands of industrial establishments in this state.

The provisions of the law may be
rejected by employers or employees
by giving thirty days notice to the
industrial board of Indiana, which
has charge of the operation of the statute.

So sweeping is the act in its application, and so thoroughly does it
encompass the army of employers
and employees in its provisions, that
a recent study of it by men learned
in the law, results in a finding that
factory employes or railroad brake-
men are not affected to any greater
extent than is the singer in a church
choir.

If, after Sept. 1, a brakeman on
a freight or passenger train slips
and suffers the loss of a foot, or
has a greater or lesser injury the
liability of the railroad by which he
is employed is no greater under the
compensation act than would be the
official board of a church if a choir
singer were to slip on an icy side-
walk or steps on the church property and suffer an injury. That is,
provided in either case the church
or the railroad or the choir singer
or the brakeman had given thirty
days' notice of their rejection of the
law.

In the first bulletin on the operation of the law, written by Samuel
R. Artman, a member of the industrial board of Indiana, the purposes and the effect of the law, together with a comprehensive explanation of how employers and employes shall proceed under it, is given. It sets out just what are the duties of employers and employees
who operate under it in such simple
and comprehensive words that Mr.
Artman's bulletin has been copied
by other states where similar statutes are in operation.

The workmen's compensation act
was passed by the 1915 Assembly.
Its primary object is set forth in the title of the act "An act to promote
the prevention of industrial accidents," and that title is the key-
note to the whole statute, its aims
and purposes and the results it is designed to accomplish.

The prevention of industrial accidents, by which is meant those
mishaps which occur in all industrial pursuits and which result in
the maiming of so many working-
men, has long been a serious problem for every state. Workmen's
compensation acts, now in operation in many states, are
designed to prevent accidents, and
that fact is strikingly set out in Mr.
Artman's bulletin.

The ultimate object of work-
men's compensation is at least twofold.

Possibility of Abandoning Neutral-
ity Increased by Messages

BY HENRY WOOD.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Sofia, Bulgaria, August 10. (Delayed) The possibility that Bulgaria may yet abandon her neutral-
ity and fall upon the back of Turkey was materially increased today
by news reaching here from other
Balkan capitals.

The Bulgarian foreign office was
informally told that Serbia is willing to make important concessions
if Rumania and Greece adopt a
more conciliatory attitude in the present negotiations.

The nature of a message from Athens was not disclosed but representatives of the allies declared
it contained representations from
the Greek government that aroused
high hopes that both Greece and Bulgaria may agree to enter the war

Overloading, Faulty Ballast
Tank and Construction.

(By United Press.)

Chicago, August 11.—Six of the
owners and officers of the Eastland
sunk in the Chicago river with a loss
of nearly 1,000 lives, were indicted
by the state grand jury today. They
are charged with manslaughter and
criminal negligence. Judge Kerston
at once issued capias for the indicted men's arrest.

The jury recommended the steam-
boat inspection service be transferred from the department of commerce and labor to the control and
direction of the navy department.
The report placed the cause of
disaster on overloading, a faulty
ballast tank and on the construction of the vessel.

Here Last Week of August,
Find it Favorite Diversion.

RACE FOR NEXT CONVENTION

Them Have Candidate For National Treasurer.

Fraternity politics is always one
of the big features played at the national conventions of the Kappa Alpha Phi fraternity. The convention will be held in this city fair
week, August 25 to 27 and the
political pot has started boiling.

The local chapter is making great
preparations to make the convention
the best ever held and with the fair
as an added attraction the 300 delegates and visitors that are expected to be attracted to this city will
be assured of plenty of entertainment. The official program has not
been completed but will be announced in a few days.

The race for the national offices
of the fraternity always furnishes
plenty of excitement and this year
the various candidates have started
early making their campaign. One
of the big fights at every national
convention is for the place of holding the next convention. Thus far
four cities have announced their intentions of asking for the next convention. Glen B. Woodward of Bloomington, is out for treasurer.
The candidates from Tipton and De-
troit are not known, but both cities
are after the convention and one of
the best fights in the history of the
fraternity is expected.

Interest is also shown in the race
for the presidency. So far two candidates have appeared. They are Kenneth Sullivan of Alexandria and
Ernest Erdmann of Greensburg.
Both men have been making an active campaign and the entire Greensburg chapter will come here in the interests of Erdmann.

E. S. McCarty, of Huntington,
has announced that he will be a candidate for secretary. He has
notified the local convention committee that a crowd of fifteen and
possibly more will attend from Huntington. So far G. Walter Ratcliff,
of Newcastle, has a clear field for
the office of vice-president. All of the candidates have started their
campaign and have solicited the
various chapters for support.

ANNOUNCEMENT

A Great Free Demonstration of Scholl's Foot Comfort Service

SATURDAY, AUG. 14, 1915

Consult the Chicago Foot Specialist FREE

On this day FREE examination and advice will be given by an expert under the direction of Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, the famous foot specialist. He will also give demonstration of foot appliances necessary in the correction of foot troubles. This important event was arranged at great expense principally for you who have weak, tired, aching, calloused feet, for you who suffer from bunion pains and corns, or who have broken down arches, crooked toes, and hammer toes, for you who have tried fruitlessly to get relief. Not obliged to buy shoes here. If you have flat foot, weak feet or broken down arches, no matter if you are already wearing arch supports have your feet scientifically examined by this specialist and let him advise you what to do. If you have been using bunion and corn remedies that furnish temporary relief without correcting the cause be sure to get this scientific advice. If you are one of the many thousands who have always had trouble in being properly fitted to shape your footgear come to our store. The difficulty will be solved easily and simply and perfect foot comfort will be given you.

WARNING: You may not realize it but those slight aches at the heels and ankles, those painful cramped toes, that body weariness and brain fog are typical of weak arches and likely to result in a serious derangement of the whole nervous system. Many people have mistaken these pains for rheumatism and have tried internal remedies to correct them when all they really needed was proper support of the feet arches.

REASON FOR THIS DEMONSTRATION

It has been our ever constant aim to make this the most progressive shoe store in town. For months we have thoroughly investigated the efficiency of the service rendered users of Dr. Scholl's Foot Specialties, and wearers of his appliances. We have seen people who previously walked with great difficulty now able to stand the most rigorous exercising of the feet, enduring long walks and long standing without the slightest annoyance. We have found everyone of Dr. Scholl's corrective devices anatomically correct and scientifically perfect. To give our patrons and friends the full benefit of the Scholl Foot Comfort Service we have arranged this demonstration and will henceforth conduct in our store an orthopedic department for continued service of this character. We are headquarters for Scholl's Foot Comfort Specialties and Appliances.

THERE'S A SCHOLL APPLIANCE FOR EVERY FOOT AILMENT OR DEFORMITY

Whatever your foot troubles may be, there is a Scholl appliance or device which will correct permanently the trouble from which you are suffering. Consult this noted specialist and let him advise you about your trouble.

Designs as shown by some firms are more or less freakish or fadish to attract the attention of the prospective customers with scarcely a thought of their wearing appearance or correctness in proportion. But then they are merely on paper and represent but a small loss if they don't take.

Obituary.

Gladys May Mapes was born at Glenwood, Ind., Oct. 23d 1893 and died August 6th, 1915. She attended the home school for eleven years, completing her last year of high school at Rushville where she graduated in 1911.

The following September she entered the Hes Devor Business College in Indianapolis and in a short while completed the course and accepted a position in the office of Robinson, Synnues and Marsh which she held for more than 3 years.

Last summer she contracted pneumonia and came home for a few months.

In October she returned to the city and remained in the same office until the 29th of May of this year. Finding her strength failing, she came home for a rest which she has found in the arms of her Savior she loved and trusted.

She united with the Methodist street M. E. church at Indianapolis where she took an active part in the Sunday school and other church affairs. After returning to the city in September she made the home near Cumberland and changed her membership to the M. E. church there.

She was an interested and active member there until she was called home.

Gladys numbered friends by all who knew her. She ever had a smile and a kind word for all. She was a loving daughter and sister.

During her last illness she was patient and uncomplaining.

As she fell asleep, she murmured "Mama don't cry, Jesus is with us. There is no flock how-e're tended."

But has one dead Lamb there, There is no household how-e're defended.

But has one vacant chair. 1281

By John Wildig

Only a comparatively few years ago the hen which is honored and respected today by most everyone was considered a necessary evil which belonged to the farm, not because of the revenue she would produce, but because it was the custom. As the wheels of progress made a few turns, the means of transportation were improved so that supply and demand were equalized by taking the products from distant farms to the densely populated cities and the cold storage plants were developed, thus distributing the products through the year. The little hen, formerly considered insignificant, rose to prominence until she now represents what is said to be a billion dollar industry. The methods of farming are changing rapidly from the extensive to the intensive and as the change takes place the hen gradually presses forward, for she plays a very important part in intensive farming. The same thing is true with poultry as with horses, sheep, cattle, hogs, etc., namely, that when man becomes dependent upon them for the principal part of his support, he takes more interest and puts forth more effort to improve them.

One of the first moves to improve poultry was the poultry show. They have done so much good and increased the popularity of poultry to such an extent that almost every state and country has its poultry shows. Most of the good one by the poultry shows has been due to the makers of the American standard of perfection, which is the judges' guide, who made the standard shapes conform so nearly to the shapes of the best producers. The interest, however, in the shows was so great that many flocks of hens were produced with only the show point in mind and quantity of egg production was partly overlooked or ignored all together. Only a few years ago the trap nest was introduced, which made it possible to know accurately the sire and dam of each chick so that accurate pedigree records could be kept. This was a boon to the poultry industry in general for it made it possible for both the utility and fancy poultryman to know the breeding of their birds.

There are two factors which determine both fancy and utility values, one is breeding and the other is environment. Failures come from a lack of either factor. One poultryman has a well bred strain, but fails from proper feed and care. Another man puts forth great energy and spends time and money making all conditions ideal for the poultry to succeed but fails because of poor breeding in his flock.

COTTON EXPORTS HAVE INCREASED

Domestic Consumption About Normal And Price is Higher Than Anyone Predicted

(By United Press.)

Washington, Aug. 11.—Contrary to general belief, our cotton exports for the first five months of 1915, (war time), exceeded exports for the corresponding period in 1914, (peace time).

Since war began much discussion of cotton crop has been and is taking places without full knowledge of the facts, which are:

The 1914 crop was 15,873,000 bales, with 1,325,600 bales left from 1913 and 303, 400 bales imported, making a total visible supply of 17,509,000 bales on hand, June 1, 1915 12,562,000 bales had been exported or used here, leaving 4,947,000 bales.

The total bales exported from Aug. 1, 1914 to June 11, 1915, is 868,000 bales less than for the same period of 1913; but for the first five months of this year 5,180,363 bales were exported as compared with 3,139,087 in the same period of 1914.

It seems likely the exports for the ensuing months will be even greater.

During the last few weeks principal factors affecting the Liverpool cotton market seem to be the following:

(a) Abundant stocks at Liverpool and elsewhere.

(b) Deliveries at Liverpool in excess of speculative contracts.

(c) The lack of full revival of normal trade conditions in manufactured products.

(d) The good condition reported for the new cotton crop in the South. (The cotton acreage has not yet been reported.)

Minor factors which seem to have affected the Liverpool and other cotton markets are:

(a) Uncertainty as to the duration of present conditions.

(b) The quantity and disposition of prize cotton in England.

(c) The entrance of Italy into the war.

(d) The disturbance of shipping both of belligerent and neutral countries.

The domestic consumption of cotton has been about as much as was anticipated, export of cotton much larger than was anticipated, and the price received higher than most people would have been willing to predict last fall.

A system of accounts for small farmers' co-operative selling organizations has been worked out and may be obtained on request from the Department of Agriculture.

Half a million free injections of tuberculin for cattle are sent out annually by the Department of Agriculture. Any county, city or state may obtain a supply free by promising to report to the government the result of its use.

Powered hellebore mixed with water and sprinkled in and around garbage cans and like places where the larvae is deposited, will keep millions of houseflies from hatching, says the Department of Agriculture. Hellebore is cheap and does not endanger livestock or crops.

FLIES FIGHT FOR TURKEY.

London, Aug. 1: (By Mail) The Allied forces in the Dardanelles are not only fighting Turks but a formidable army of flies.

The flies are even worse than the Turks, writes a correspondent from Gallipoli.

Food is black with flies the instant it is brought to light and sleep is almost impossible due to the constant buzzing attacks of the winged enemy. Jam, which enters largely into the sweets of army stores, is pounced upon greedily and it is only by dexterous and long practiced maneuvers that a soldier is able to beat the flies to the eating of it.

Cigarettes on the peninsula are an absolute luxury, according to the correspondent. The soldiers are willing to pay a heavy price for cigarettes sold by small Green "canteens," behind the Allied lines. The cigarettes are made in Germany but the troops smoke them just the same.

Americans felt very powerful the other morning when the New York Times showed that there are in this country 17,000,000 able-bodied men capable of serving in an army. But only 61 in each 10,000 have had any military training!

When one comes to think of it, the British Empire, with 438,000,000 population, ought to have over 70,000,000 available men, but Great Britain unprepared, cuts a sorry figure against an Empire one-sixth its own size, and Russia, unprepared is fleeing before the armies of a nation of much less than half its population.

"Is America learning this lesson?" the real American papers are asking.

The creation of an American merchant marine was a big issue in the last Congress, but the President's plan was brought to naught. Now Great Britain is planning a line through to the Panama Canal to the west coast of South America, and the American Trans-Atlantic Company has gathered up eleven neutral vessels and put them under the American flag.

On July 31 the net balance in the general fund of the United States Treasury was $68,173,462 as compared with $132,263,619 two years ago under Republican revenue laws and appropriations. At the end of the first month of the new fiscal year disbursements had exceeded receipts by $16,171,757, which is the amount of deficit accumulated during July.

Again has the war been brought close home by the halting of the Dutch liner Nickerie, right off the New Jersey coast, by the British cruiser Isis, and the taking off of two German cabin passengers.

William L. Taylor has let it be known among his friends that he will seek the nomination for United States senator on the Republican ticket.

When an actress needs some publicity, she goes to the war zone and becomes a nurse.

fourteen counties gathered in midsummer, as they did at Springfield, over a year before the primary, to discuss ways and means of insuring a sweeping victory, is eloquent testimony as to the militant spirit of the party. The multitude of candidates furnishes additional evidence of confidence. A Republican nomination next year will be worth while. During the four hours of speech-making at Springfield there were no references to getting together. The Republicans of Missouri are together. The question is the perfecting of an organization and the selection of such candidates as well be worthy of the trust imposed in them. The prospects of Republican victory in this state have been conceded by a few frank Democrats and that there is alarm among all the leaders is evidenced by their unusual activity.

The Republicans feel their responsibility. While they will spare no efforts to make victory certain, they are not certain only about victory. They earnestly desire to be worthy of victory. In various sections of the state men of the highest standing and greatest ability are being urged to become candidates, not because there is a dearth of volunteers, but because there are problems in this state whose solution will require the finest abilities and the ripest experience. The Democratic politicians who have been in charge of affairs are deficient both in purpose and in ability. Their unpopularity is generally admitted. But the Republicans do not wish to be mere temporary beneficiaries; they desire to elect men who will so ably administer the affairs of the state that Missouri will become reliably Republican. To accomplish this it will be necessary for Republicans who have no axes to grind, who have pride in their party and who are loyal to their state, to take an active part in shaping the preliminaries of next year's struggle.

nersville gave up the idea of having a chautauqua this year, but the Tri-Kappas took up the plan recently and hope to make some money for local charities.

HOOSIER HISTORY

Early Mail Service.

"One of the greatest privations of the pioneers' exile was the absence of letters from home. There was no post and every one was dependent upon chance travellers to 'fetch and carry mail.' When any one was going on a journey it would be known, and the whole region would bring letters for him to take with him, for postage on a letter cost forty cents. Many of these missives from the frontier were written with a quill pen, dipped in pokeberry juice for ink. It was a great thing, wrote an old lady in later times, when the pioneer began to get mail regularly twice a month. Sounding his horn, the postman approached on horseback, and every one came trooping out of the house to get a letter from 'back east.' Sometimes he would be several days behind time on account of high water. It often happened that the postmaster had to spread the mail out in the sun to dry." Julia H. Levering in "Historic Indiana."

EARLY TRAVELING

In the earlier territorial period when the wilderness was still untraced by roads, there was little use for wagons. People walked or rode horseback. In the absence of bridges every wide stream must be forded. In case a tree had fallen across, the horse had to "toe the log." The few who made themselves wagons, as time passed, writes Julia Levering, in "Historic Indiana," made their harness of strips of deer hide and hickory bark, and the horsecollars were braided corn husks. But horses were very scarce, and two men would often ride the tie on their way to town. That is, one would ride a mile or two, then tie the horse and walk on. When the other man came up, he would untie the horse and ride until he overtook his companion. When a man and his wife went on a journey, she rode behind, on the same horse; generally both carried a young child in their arms.

Going to Mill

Horse mills were set up in crudest fashion, as soon as wheat was raised; but as early as possible, in every neighborhood where there was available water-power, one of the settlers would build a dam, and start a mill, either for manufacturing woolens or grinding grain or both. The people rode from ten to thirty miles to these mills, and often had to wait three or four days and nights for their grist. The grain was brought in bags on horseback and the boys or men camped about the mill, visiting, playing games, and telling stories until their turn came. The miller took "toll" for his work, generally at the rate of one fourth of the grain ground, and every man had to bolt his own flour from the chaff. From that fact you could always tell when a man had been to mill.—Julia H. Levering in "Historic Indiana."

Appeals to Patriotism

Endeavoring to evade an accounting to the American people for bad legislation and worse administration, Democratic leaders are putting up a pitiful plea of "Stand by the President." So far as foreign complications are concerned, the plea is entirely unnecessary. American citizens, regardless of nativity, color, sex or political affiliation will support the President in every effort to maintain the honor and dignity of the United States.

But that has absolutely nothing whatever to do with discussion of domestic affairs. Because of a split in the Republican party, the Democrats were lifted into power by a minority vote representing the principles in which the majority do not believe. This is a government of, by and for the people, and the people propose to have their laws made and administered according to their own desire. They propose to discuss and expose the result of Democratic rule. They propose to make war upon Democratic policies and they don't intend to wage battle with stuffed clubs. This is a fight by the people, for the people, and against an incompetent, inefficient, pledge-breaking political aggregation known as the Democratic party.

The Democrats took charge of this Government when the country was prosperous, when high standards of efficiency ruled in government service when public money was being spent economically, when there was a surplus in the treasury, and when men everywhere had employment at wages that enabled them to pay their bills.

By the enactment of a Democratic tariff law, American industry was paralyzed. By the overthrow of the merit system, the diplomatic service and the administration departments were seriously impaired. A large surplus in the treasury was turned into deficit. The cost of living increased at the same time that the buying power of the people was reduced. Such is the manner in which public business has been conducted. If these facts are not to be shown to the American people—if it is "lese majesty" to tell the truth about the people's business—if we must close our eyes to government at home and re-elect an administration because governments are at war in Europe, then we may as well cease to claim that we have popular government in this country.

The higher the office, the greater the power, the wider the influence and the greater the responsibility—the more important it is that there be full and free discussion and honest criticism of official action. No man can oppose such discussion and such criticism without doing violence to the principles of liberty upon which this government was founded. No man who owes allegiance to the Democratic party can protest against the closest scrutiny of the record of that party without tacitly admitting a feeling of guilt and shame. Along with his appeal to patriotism he should change his party affiliations or confess himself an intellectual mountebank.

Noting the practical disappearance of the progressive party in New York state, the New York Tribune says: "This disintegration isn't so surprising. The average American wants to make his vote 'count.' Even when voting as a protest he wants to help defeat the candidate he has it in for by voting directly for the candidate who can beat him rather than for a third candidate. Moreover, most of the progressives having been republicans originally because they believed in the superior merits of that party's men and morals, they have tired of helping to put Tammany partially or completely in power in state. Good fighters—or they wouldn't have joined the new party—they want now to take up the fight for the things they believe in within the republican organization, where there seems more chance of accomplishing something for them, if victorious, than within a party which can't hope to elect a progressive candidate."

RED MEN TACKLE K. OF P. TEAM FRIDAY

Game Will Determine Leadership.
For Time Being, in Fraternal

CONTEST WILL START AT 3:15

The Knights of Pythias and Red Men will cross bats Friday afternoon at Edgewater park and the outcome of the game will determine the leadership of the Fraternal league. Considerable interest is shown in this game. It will be the first meeting of the two teams and as the two are evenly matched according to the dope, a hot contest is expected.

By winning the Red Men can go into first place and by losing they will go into a tie for the cellar position. The K. of P. team has a chance to better its hold on the lead in the league and for this reason both teams will be out to win. The largest crowd thus far in the fraternal league season is expected. The game will be called at 3:15 o'clock.

REGULATIONS TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED

Sportsmen Are Warned About Federal Laws Concerning Shooting of Wild Fowl.

OPEN SEASON APPROACHES

Washington, August 11.—With the approach of the open season for shooting wild fowl, the United States Department of Agriculture is warning sportsmen that the Federal regulations as amended October 1, 1914, will be strictly enforced. Some misunderstanding has arisen from the fact that the various State laws do not always conform to the Federal regulations. This is regarded as unfortunate but in such cases the Department must insist upon the observance of the Federal regulations.

The Department will consider any recommendations submitted in good faith for amendment of the regulations, but will hold no public hearings thereon, nor will it amend the regulations prior to October 15, 1915. It is the purpose of the Department to conform the regulations to the wishes of the majority of sportsmen so far as it can be done and at the same time give wild fowl the necessary protection.

Federal regulations divide the United States into two zones, Zone No. 1, the breeding zone, includes the States of Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey and all States north of them. Zone No. 2, the wintering zone, includes all States south of those named.

New Yorkers Learn Military Game Under Direction of United States Government

Total Cost Including Uniform And Food is Figured at $40—College Boys There

(By United Press.)

New York, Aug. 10.—The wide interest in the question of military preparedness has sent a large number of New Yorkers to the military training camp for business and professional men at Plattsburg, near the U. S. Army post. The period of training is from today to Sept. 6. The organization of camp grew out of the success of the camp for college men just ended, and the desire expressed by older men to receive the same training.

It is explained that participating in the training offered does not increase the legal or moral obligation of those who attend. The course of instruction is designed to aid in filling with educated men the great deficiency in commissioned officers that would immediately arise in case of a national emergency that required the raising of a large volunteer army. The training is along this line, rather than for service in the ranks.

In view of the utter lack of a reserve body of officers such as would be necessary to organize and command volunteer troops, attendance at the camp is encouraged by U. S. Army officers, including General Leonard Wood, as an important and most useful public service.

U. S. Army officers will furnish the instruction. The course comprises company and battalion drill, the mechanism and use of modern rifles, target practice, military hygiene, tactics, strategy, etc. Manoeuvres, with regular troops representing the opposing forces, will be held toward the close of the camp. Men attending must provide themselves with uniform consisting of one suit of cotton olive drab, one extra pair of breeches, campaign hat, two pairs of stout walking boots, one pair of leggings and two cotton or wool olive drab shirts. The total cost, including uniform, food and all expenses except railroad fare is figured at $40.

JONES TO MAKE TWO STARTS THURSDAY

Local Trainer Leaves For Grand Rapids to Drive Fay Richmond and the Importer Both Pacers.

FORMER SAID TO BE FAST

Harrie Jones left Tuesday evening for Grand Rapids, Mich., where he will start two horses in the grand circuit this week. Fay Richmond and The Importer, the only two he has taken on to the big rings, are both scheduled to make their first starts Thursday. Fay Richmond will start in the 2:06 class pacing and the Importer will be in the 2:09 class of pacers when the starter says go.

Fay Richmond, a son of New Richmond, is looked upon as a comer and many experts believe he will burn up the grand circuit this year. He has been pacing miles on the Riverside track close to two minutes. He went the last half in one minute flat the other day, it is authoritatively reported. It will be Mr. Jones' first start this season. He nearly always drives winners.

SINGLE G. LOSES GRAND RAPIDS RACE

Cambridge City Horse Is Only Favorite Falling by Wayside—Third Place For Him.

DID NOT HAVE ENOUGH REST

Single G. was the only favorite beaten Tuesday at the grand circuit races in Grand Rapids. Single G. driven by Gosnell found the going a little hard in the 2:08 pace and the best Gosnell could do was to take third money. Geers, driving Russell Boy, won the race in straight heats. Single G. finished second in the first heat, fourth in the second and third in the final heat. The purse was for $3,000.

Local backers of Single G. state that the horse did not have sufficient rest, as Gosnell drove the horse to a win last Saturday. The best time in the race yesterday was 2:02 1/2, made in the second heat. Russell Boy traveled the first heat in 2:04 1/2 and the last in 2:04 1/2.

BATTLES DO NOT CAUSE RAINFALL

Theory That War May Also Be Blamed For Wet Weather Exploded by a Federal Authority.

NO BASIS REASON FOR IT

The theory that the excessive rainfall which eastern Indiana has experienced, was due to heavy cannonading on European battlefields, received a death blow in a communication received from the department of agriculture at Washington, by a man who sought enlightenment on the subject. The letter reads:

"Replying to your letter of July 31, you are informed that no basic reason can be given for the excessive rainfall in certain portions of the country at the present time. It will probably be interesting to you to be informed that there is also a deficiency of rainfall in many sections of the country and that the average rainfall for the entire United States is about normal. The European war has nothing to do with this condition."

The letter is signed by H. J. Cox, professor of meteorology.

Reports of drought in Hungary failed to shake the belief of some Rushville people that the unusual weather conditions here were due to the European struggle.

fold," Mr. Artman says.

"1. To prevent accidents, or, at most, to reduce those that do occur to the inevitable class.

"2. To supply to injured employees and their dependents an absolutely certain indemnity in case of injury."

Those who operate under the compensation act in Indiana will escape the obnoxious litigation which inevitably results from injury to workmen, and instead of the usually long-delayed settlement of claims of workmen against their employers, where injuries result and settlement will be made as soon as the necessary details are completed by the industrial board.

Its chief benefits to the employee and employer alike come from the definite and certain settlements, together with the certainty of the amounts for which settlements are to be made. The law specifies exactly what is to be paid to injured workmen in all industrial accidents, which are classified in the act.

(The Beauty Secret.)
The real secret of keeping young-looking is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these regular, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, throat, joints, etc., becomes sallow, red, wrinkled and sallow of face.
But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called "vegetable salome" because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with that great salome of universal origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in "Santal" tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or dizziness. These harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Santal tablets, which may be purchased from any drug store, will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person.

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blotches, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)
Unsightly eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowel and a polluted blood stream as a result of chronic constipation. To remedy to outward applications, which can never have natural permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy, to be found in each drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form. These harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Santal tablets, which may be purchased from any drug store, will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

"They say that the advent of the 'Santal' tablet has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a bit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.
Santal tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functioning—instead of encouraging the 'cathartic habit'—also, instead of irritating the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so easily and gently, they are preferred on this account to the violently acting purgatives. Their inexpensiveness is another reason for the popularity of Santal tablets. One need purchase only a dime's worth, and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evil consequences, has finally been found.—Drugists Review.

"Eat 'Em While They're Good" is Motto Adopted by Many Gibson County Farmers.

THEY ARE SHIPPING DIRECT

Princeton, Ind., August 11.—"Eat 'em while they're good."

That's the motto adopted by a number of Gibson County farmers who have started in a system of marketing melons which they believe will eventually be generally used by growers. They are shipping only guaranteed cantaloupes—guaranteeing to replace every basket or crate containing melons of poor quality—and they are shipping direct to the consumer.

The commission houses are avoided, thus saving time during which melons that have been shipped and reshipped often get in bad condition.

Gibson county cantaloupes are picked from the field one day, sun ripened, judged by an expert, and packed and shipped that afternoon. They reached the consumer the next morning. In this way the entire central west can be served in twenty-four hours, and the melons aren't picked green to ripen in commission houses.

Charles G. Taylor, manufacturer and farmer, who had several years of experience in the Rocky Ford, Col., melon fields, conceived the idea. A dozen growers have enlisted with him. Each farm is numbered so that unsatisfactory melons can be traced to the proper farm for replacing. These growers are in the heart of the narrow cantaloupe belt stretching from southern Vigo county south through Sullivan, Knox and Gibson counties into Posey county and including the great Decker and Know county fields.

The Gibson county farmers selling guaranteed melons are known as the Union Melon Farms. Gibson's agricultural agent called a meeting of cantaloupe growers and from the interest displayed it is considered likely farmers in other counties will next year adopt the method outlined.

London, July 21: (By Mail)—When the Allies force the Dardanelles—if they do—one of the most important victories of the war will have been won, according to a neutral diplomat who arrived today from the Near East.

The general assumption in England, and elsewhere, that the operation on Gallipoli peninsula and in the straits are a costly side issue is wrong, he declared. If the allies lose 100,000 men in forcing the Turks back to Constantinople and eventually taking the Turkish capital, these men will have been well spent.
Not only will victory for the Allies in the Dardanelles have a great moral effect on the war situation but it will mean that Russia's fighting capabilities will be doubled if not trebled. Russia today has millions of men trained and ready and eager to fight the enemy, but waiting—waiting for their rifles, guns, shells and munitions which England, France and America can pour into Russia in the necessary quantities and with the necessary speed through the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. Victory in the Near East would also virtually raise the present siege of Russia by Germany and Austria.
The eyes of the entire neutral world are today glued on the Dardanelles operations, according to this authority.

Indiana Advocates Buying Away From Home in Circular Sent Out to Township Trustees.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES QUOTED

Indiana Manufacturer Shows in Two Cases Where he Can Far Underbid the Quotations.

Indianapolis, Ind., August 11.—Her is a piece of news for the merchants of Indiana.

Under a Democratic administration the state of Indiana, in effect, has become the agent for two Chicago mail order houses—Montgomery Ward & Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Last week the state board of accounts scattered broadcast over Indiana a pamphlet entitled "Price List for Guidance of Township Trustees." While there are a number of Indiana concerns which manufacture play ground material, not one of them is listed in this official guide. However, the prices of the two Chicago mail order houses are listed on all kinds of playground material, including swings, settees, tennis rackets, footballs, tennis nets, tennis balls, rubber hose and a number of other things that are manufactured in Indiana and sold by hundreds of Indiana merchants.

One of the Chicago mail order houses quoted price of $4.50 on swings made out of beech wood. A representative of an Indiana manufacturer said today that he would be glad to sell a million made out of oak for $4 each. The Chicago mail order house quoted a price of $7.50 for a four passenger settee and the Indiana manufacturer quoted a price on a six passenger settee of the same design of $4.50.

When the members of the state board of accounts realized that they had made a big mistake in sending out these Chicago mail order price lists they promised to not send out any more until an insert had been printed containing the prices of one Indiana concern. The representative of this concern questioned Gilbert Hendren as to why the board had seen fit to advise patronizing foreign concerns and he quoted Hendren as saying in explanation: "We did it because a majority of the township trustees in Indiana have no knowledge as to where to buy or how to buy or how much to pay for such material."

It is not known whether the board decided to issue this price list only after hearing of the experiences township trustees in Clay and Vigo county had with George M. Ray, publisher of the official Democratic organ of Indiana, who was saved from going to the penitentiary after having pleaded guilty to a charge of "overcharging" by the interference of Governor Ralston, who secured freedom for him by writing a letter to the judge of the Clay circuit court.

PLAY LONG DISTANCE CHESS

L. B. Smelser and Others Enjoy Game by Mail.

Ed Harvey and Prof. L. B. Smelser are spending much of their time these nights in playing chess by mail says the Lebanon Herald. Both are members of a chess by mail correspondence bureau. Harvey is playing now with C. A. Ward of Fostoria, Ohio, with whom he plays three games. He then plays with P. J. Wortman, Dayton, Ohio, and D. S. Hought, Garden City, L. I. Prof. Smelser's squad is composed of himself and men from New York, Chicago and Roanoke, Va.

Each player is required to make a move every 36 hours. This move is to be reported to his opponent and then he makes a move. The winner of each squad gets a prize, then there is a grand prize for the winner of all matches.

APPLY BUSINESS TO ROAD MAKING

EXPERT KNOWLEDGE NEEDED

There Should be Different Types of Construction According to Amount of Travel

The application of business methods to road building and road maintenance throughout the state of Indiana, will be one of the results of the legislation for which the Indiana State Automobile Association is working which it proposes to introduce at the next session of the legislature which will convene in January 1917.

Road building and road maintenance is a science, and as such, requires expert knowledge, both as regards the method of construction and the kind of materials used. This is a fact generally recognized by all European countries, and by over 40 states in this country, which have their roads constructed under expert supervision. In these states and countries roads are built according to the traffic passing over them and constructed of laboratory tested materials that have proven to be the most economical and the best investment of the taxpayers money for that class of traffic.

In Indiana, it is well established fact that 90% of the travel is over only 20% or one one-fifth of our roads. This means, that from the point of view of scientific road building and economy in the expenditure of the taxpayers money, we should have different types of construction according to the traffic. Under our present system his is impossible because of the fact, that the entire cost of building and maintaining these main arteries of travel is borne entirely by the townships and counties through which they pass, notwithstanding, the fact that only a very small percentage of the traffic over these roads originates in the township or county. The remainder and much larger portion, being from other townships or counties and other states.

Under a system of state supervision and state and federal aid this situation would be remedied, first, by the state specifying a road of the proper construction and materials for each class of traffic and supervising its construction and maintenance. And secondly, by making the entire wealth of the state contribute to the expense of the same instead of, while 40 per cent of the entire taxable wealth of the state within city limits contributes practically nothing toward the construction and maintenance of the public roads of the state which they use continually and which are a benefit to every resident of the state.

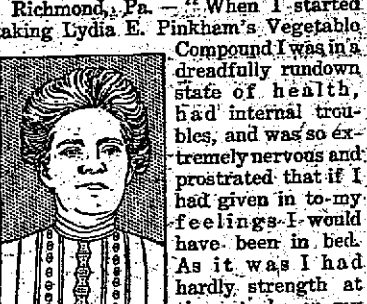

With the general ownership of cars in this state there is a growing sentiment for better roads, more of them and the more efficient expenditure of the taxpayers money. Through the efforts of the Indiana State Automobile Association, the organization of the individual motor car owners of the state, it is hoped to accomplish the ends desired. These accomplishments can be brought about because the Association's membership in every community will represent the best interests there, and these members having no personal interest to advance will be able to consider the road situation from an unbiased standpoint. The management of the affairs of the Association rests with the board of directors elected from the state at large, thereby making it a truly representative body. The motorists of the state are very enthusiastic over the plans and aims of the Association and are zealously co-operating everywhere with the Association's Field Secretaries in building up local affiliated associations.

Indiana is beginning its road work at a very logical time and is in a position to profit by the mistakes and experiments of other states. Road building today is a business of its own. What Indiana needs is a newly appointed in charge of important road engineering work, made responsible for the expenditure of all money provided by the taxpayers of the state. The people of Indiana pay millions for roads annually but because of lack of responsibility are getting back but a small percentage for every dollar appropriated. What is the answer?

WOMAN WOULD NOT GIVE UP

Though Sick and Suffering; At Last Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Richmond, Pa. — "When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health, had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my feet and what I did do was by a great effort. I could not sleep at night and of course felt very bad in the morning, and had a steady headache."

"After taking the second bottle I noticed that the headache was not so bad, I rested better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued its use until it made a new woman of me, and now I can hardly realize that I am able to do so much as I do. Whenever I know any woman in need of a good medicine I highly praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. FRANK CLARK, 3146 N. Tulip St., Richmond, Pa.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known for the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The people have so much faith in its curative powers that they will offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Admits Business Depression, But
States That Parcel Post Business Has Increased

BY LOWELL MELLETT

(U. S. MAIL CORRESPONDENT)

Washington, Aug. 11.—"What do you want to talk about?" asked the Postmaster General.

"Politics,"

"Nothing doing," said the Postmaster General cordially.

"Why not?"

"I absolutely can't won't and shan't talk politics," said Mr. Burleson. "Try something else."

"All right, but why do they call you the politician of the cabinet?"

"I suppose that is because you writing people have to coin catch phrases to describe, catalogue, classify, and in some degree dramatize public men in the public eye. That's only my opinion. You folks did it and ought to know why."

"Speaking of politics—"

"We aren't speaking of politics," said the Postmaster General.

"What means this holler in the rural districts about restrictions of the rural free delivery?"

The Postmaster General had been at least half-interested in the papers on his desk, but now he swung sharply around in his chair. He removed his nose glasses—probably to save them from the heat of the sudden blaze in his eyes.

"There has been no restriction! Who says there has been? A revision is under way which gives service to many hundred thousands who are entitled to it, but heretofore have been denied it. This is being done without increasing the cost of the postal service and without taking away service from anyone who now has it. It is accomplished with money saved by eliminating waste effort, extravagance, special favors and privileges."

"Just for example: Parts of hundreds of rural routes have been traveled daily by two or more rural carriers. There are cases in which as many as six or seven carriers, each getting from $1000 to $1200 a year, having been going over the same eight or ten miles of road. Politics! This vicious duplication of service was built up through a series of years by political influence. By cutting out these duplications we get a balance available for service in territory that has long deserved it."

"Do you know what retraces are? No. Well, I'll tell you. John Smith is a wealthy and influential farmer, living a half mile from a rural route. John uses his influence and gets an order requiring the rural carrier to go the half mile to his gate, deposit and collect mail and return to the main road a full mile of extra travel. Eliminating 26 such half-mile retraces is equivalent to eliminating an unnecessary rural route and special privilege amounting to $1200 a year."

"Between April 1 and July 10 the readjustment of the rural service and inauguration of motor vehicles service left $821, 754 for establishing new routes. With part of this money 735 new routes have been put in operation, serving 85,748 additional families, or 428,740 additional persons."

"What of your fight with the railroads?"

"I wouldn't call it a fight."

"To an innocent newspaper reader it looks—"

"No, it isn't a fight. The question of railway mail pay is purely and solely a business question to be decided on its merits after thorough sifting, deliberation and analysis of the facts. The Department desires to pay a rate reasonably commensurate to the service rendered in consideration of the conditions of the service. Mail service is a commodity of commerce, and hence the question of whether a different yardstick should be applied to it is a debatable one. It has always held

However, the Department is entitled to the lowest rate consistent with the business equities of the case. High-cost articles of commerce which move in small volume and in exchange of which a large margin of profit is involved bear high transportation charges. The mails move in large volume, are easily handled, impose little risk on the carrier and constitute a traffic into which element of profit does not enter at all. To pay the roads more than a reasonable compensation on the basis, I have indicated, would amount to levying an indirect tax upon the general public for the benefit of private interest.

"A painstaking and thorough investigation has been made, running over a long period of time. The tests of reasonableness have been completed, both as to the rates and the methods of adjusting pay, and the results have fully justified the postal authorities in resisting the claims of the railroads."

"The Government as a shipper of parcel post, should not be required to pay more than is charged other shippers for substantially the same service. There have been many instances where the railroads have carried the same matter both as express and as mail and have charged almost double for it as mail. Why should it cost the railroads any more to haul a given package because it carries the government label? How does an express company's label reduce the expense to the railroad?"

There being no apparent answer to this, the Postmaster General was asked what the next step would be.

"Largely because of the opposition to the railway mail section, the entire post office appropriation bill was defeated in the Senate last winter and the whole question went over to the coming Congress," he said. "Needless to say, I shall renew my recommendation on the subject. If the railroads are successful in their campaign for more pay, it will seriously hamper the proper development of the parcel post."

This brought us right up to the Postmaster General's favorite topic. He admitted he had taken more pleasure from the opportunity to build up the parcel post system than from any other branch of his work. It is apparent, he said, that the public appreciates the new service and wants it developed to its maximum.

"The parcel post knits our country more closely together. It is the farmer's sole express facility; the farmer buys and to some extent now, sells by mail. The Farm-to-Table adjunct of the parcel post offers the city householder the means of obtaining better farm produce at lower prices, and provides many farmers with a new lucrative market."

"Here's something you may not have thought of: As a result of the parcel post competition, all express traffic now moves much more rapidly."

"I realize that the commercial shipper has had grievances. Many boards of trade have passed resolutions declaring the present postal service lacks features of express service which for them are absolutely indispensable, such as receipts of parcels, indemnity to an unlimited amount for loss and damage and so on. Recently orders were issued granting the mailer of a parcel the privilege of obtaining a receipt on payment of one cent and increasing the size limit from 72 inches to 84 inches, length and girth combined. This will include the standard commercial crate. The pick-up, C. O. D. postage and further extension of the size and weight limits will come in time."

"When do you expect to see the Government ownership and postalization of the telegraph and telephone that you and other postmasters general have been recommending?" was a final question.

"That is hard to say. The control and operation of all vehicles for the transmission of intelligence should be in the hands of the Government. The question is specifically reserved to the government by the constitution. Telegraph and telephone utilities properly belong to

GOVERNOR WILL SPEAK AT WALDRON

Ralston Will Deliver Address at Annual Basket Meeting of Indiana Universalist Convention.

HELD AT THOMPSON HOME

Governor Samuel Ralston will deliver an address at Waldron on Sunday, September 12, in connection with the annual basket meeting of the Universalist Convention of Indiana to be held at the Delos H. Thompson Home for Aged Women. Announcement that the governor had been secured as one of the speakers for the meeting was made today by Melvin A. Beagle, of Indianapolis, treasurer of the convention. Mr. Beagle stated also that other prominent men from over the state will give talks at the meeting.

Mrs. Melvin Beagle is the matron in charge of the Home, which was given to the Universalist Convention by Mr. Thompson in his will a few years ago. Improvements including a big addition are being planned for the institution and it will soon be placed in condition that will make it stand second to none of the kind in the state. The Home is surrounded by a very fine natural park and is located on Conns creek at the outskirts of Waldron.

John F. Clifford, of Connersville, is the president of the convention and will preside at the Waldron meeting. The program will begin at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 11.—"You haven't yet paid for last winter's coal and we can't sell you any until you do," is what a number of Evansville people heard when the recent cool weather caused them to think of their coal bins and of the coming winter. The coal dealers of the city have organized into an association known as the Evansville Coal Exchange and have agreed to sell only to those who have paid their bills.

RUSH COUNTY MEN BUY BIG GRAVEL PIT

Phil Wilk, John and Fred Newman Will Operate Machinery With Electricity—Opens Soon.

IS NORTH OF CONNERSVILLE

Phil Wilk, Fred and John Newman have taken over the large gravel pit at Beeson Station, six miles north of Connersville, and are preparing to equip the pit with electrically operated machinery. The pit covers sixteen acres of land and is considered one of the best in the state. It was formerly controlled by the Lake Erie and Western railway. Arrangements have been made with an electrical company of Connersville for service and it is expected that the pit will be in operation within two weeks.

The new owners hope to be able to supply 200 yards of gravel a day and already have several large contracts. The new firm is known as Newman, Wilk and Newman and is separate entirely from the road contracting firm of Wilk & Co.

ABANDONED 19 YEARS AND ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Jennie Bigham Today Files Suit Against C. E. Bigham, Who Left Her in 1896.

ABANDONMENT ONLY CHARGE

Alleging that her husband abandoned her in 1896 and has not since lived with her, Mrs. Jennie Bigham, through her attorney Howard E. Barrett, filed suit this morning for divorce from Charles E. Bigham, now a resident of Glenwood Springs, Garfield county, Colorado.

The complaint for divorce is based solely on the abandonment charge. Mrs. Bigham states that they were married June 24, 1885 and lived together until January 8, 1896, at which time he left her, without cause, and has ever since lived apart from her and against her wish and without her consent.

FORMER STUDENTS HOLDING REUNION

One of The Members of Collegiate Institute Assemble at Battle Ground Today

(By United Press.)
Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 11.—Though the buildings and the school itself has long since passed away, former students and graduates of Battle Ground Collegiate Institute returned today for a reunion at the little town of Battle Ground north of here which once was the home of their alma mater. The institute was once the leading Methodist educational institution of the state and in the fifties and sixties many boys who afterwards became leading citizens of the state were students.

All that is left of the old school today is an old brick building which has been converted into a hotel. The old grads who returned today averaged 75 years of age. Prof. B. H. Staley of Frankfort, 90, is the sole survivor of the faculty and was present at today's reunion.

JOINT MEETING IS ADVOCATED

Secretary of Wayne County Progressive Committee Believes They Can Help G. O. P.

Republican County Chairman Says It Will be Discussed at Republican Love Feast.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 11.—Roy Fry of this city, secretary of the Wayne County Progressive Central committee, in an interview today said that no plans had been made for placing a Progressive county ticket in the field next year.

Secretary Fry further suggested the advisability of a joint meeting of the county Republican and Progressive committees for the purpose of considering the advisability of a merger of the two parties and the reorganization of the Republican party.

When informed today of Fry's suggestion that the Republican and Progressive organization hold a meeting for the purpose of discussing amalgamation, Louis S. Bowman, Republican county chairman, said:

"A Sixth district Republican love feast is to be held in Richmond early in October, the exact date not having been determined upon as yet. Everybody, Republican and Progressive, will be invited to participate in this, and two of the speakers will probably be Republican State Chairman Hayes and former Progressive State Chairman Toner, who recently returned to the Republican fold. At this love feast the matter of the Republicans and the Progressives getting together again will quite probably be discussed. With the last election the period of service of the members of both the Republican and the Progressive county central committees terminated and the men who served on those committees would have no authority to meet and discuss plans for a merger of the two parties and a reorganization of the Republican party."

ROAD MEN MEET ONCE MORE

(By United Press.)

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 11.—With the determination to make the proposed Cincinnati—South Bend road a strong competitor of the regular Dixie Highway, representatives of practically all towns and cities along the route gathered here today for another meeting to stir up enthusiasm.

Representatives of southern Indiana towns propose a road from Louisville through southern Indiana to connect with the Cincinnati—South Bend road at Greensburg. The Greensburg—Louisville branch would connect Kentucky with northern Indiana.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable are noted for their speed in giving relief. If what you eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas, causes headache, dizziness and nausea, one tablet will overcome this annoyance at once.

KNOCKING DOWN STONE WALLS

isn't what an auto is intended for, but slippery roads or very sharp turns will often cause it to make the attempt. If your machine has been "up against it," send it here for repairs. We have never yet seen a machine so badly damaged that we couldn't make it serviceable again.
